Taylor Defense Reported Seeking Venue Change

PUBLICITY GIVEN GRAFT QUIZ BASIS OF FRIENDS' MOVE

Many Affidavits in Behalf of City Clerk Are Being Obtained by Supporters, Is Report.

DEFENSE LAWYERS DECLINE TO TALK

Solicitor-General Boykin and Howard, Informed of Reported Plans, Prepare To Combat Them.

The defense of Walter C. Taylor, city clerk, under indictment for alleged extortion and bribery, will demand a change of venue next week on the ground that Taylor cannot get a "fair trial" in Fulton county, it was learned authoritatively Sunday.

Friends of Taylor, termed by Solicitor-General John A. Boykin as the leader of the municipal graft ring, are said to be obtaining a number of affidavits from supposedly disinterested parties to be submitted to Judge John D. Humphries declaring that the public prints of Atlanta, particularly The Constitution, have carried an undue amount of publicity concerning the graft investigation and Taylor's alleged part in the grafting. The affidavits are further said to assert that the newspapers "have so inflamed public opinion that a fair trial in Fulton county is impossible."

The Taylor plea for a venue change is expected to be similar to that entered by Jack White, through his counsel, H. A. Allen, when his case was called for trial before Judge Humphries last Tuesday, save that it is to be supported by the affidavits, sworn to by men and women high in the city's business and professional world. The city clerk's friends, it was said, are confident that the plea will be so strong that Judge Humphries cannot deny it.

Reuben R. Arnold, chief of Taylor's defense counsel, Sunday night refused to comment on the reported plea.

No Announcement to Make.

"The matter has not been determined definitely," Mr. Arnold said, refusing either to confirm or deny that it was projected. "We have no announcement to make regarding the matter at this time."

Samuel D. Hewlett, who is to be associated with Mr. Arnold in the Taylor case refused to comment at all.

"The Taylor defense has no announcement for the public as far as I am concerned," Mr. Hewlett said.

Nevertheless it was definitely established that the state, through Solicitor-General Boykin and Special Prosecutor William Scheley Howard, is informed of the reported move of the Taylor defense and is making plans to combat it.

Mr. Howard said he received reports of the circulation of the Taylor affidavits and that the state was ready to answer them when and if they are presented.

"If Mr. Taylor's lawyers ask for a change of venue, the defense has a name determined opposition and I believe the same result Jack White's counsel encountered," Mr. Howard said. "Mr. Taylor can get a fair trial in Fulton county and I think every citizen of the county knows it full well."

Three Centers of Interest.

As the grand jury's investigation into municipal graft and corruption enters its sixth month today, three centers of interest, considered among the most important developments in the inquiry thus far, they are:

The trial of Purchasing Agent William P. Price on an indictment accusing him of defrauding the city, which is scheduled to begin before a jury in Judge John D. Humphries' division of the Fulton superior court at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning.

The grand jury's delving into information offered by an indicted official of the city, which was given by Solicitor-General John A. Boykin Friday and which was of such a nature as to hold up indictments which were scheduled to have been voted on by the grand jury Saturday.

The resignation of the convicted Councilman Harry York of the sixth ward, in the midst of the city council for action at its meeting this afternoon.

Though the Price defense has subpoenaed a long line of witnesses, most of whom are expected to testify concerning the high character of the purchasing agent, it was learned Sunday night that an effort will be made to complete the trial in one day, with morning, afternoon and night sessions.

England Arrests Gandhi's Disciples

Mahatma Is Unmolested as He Breaks Salt Laws But Followers Are Sent to Jail.

DANDI, India, April 6.—(AP)—Wholesale arrest of the adherents of Mahatma Gandhi, who followed his example in violating the salt laws was started by police today. Gandhi himself remained free. At an early hour today Gandhi began his civil disobedience campaign here by dipping water from the sea for manufacture of salt.

Police fired on rioting strikers at Kurla Station, injuring seven. In a riot at Thana four non-strikers were injured. Three policemen also were hurt.

The strikers, carrying red flags, paraded on the railroad tracks, holding up the trains temporarily. Stones also were thrown at trains.

Fifty-five Arrested.

At Viramgam, in Bombay presidency, Manilal Kothari, one of Gandhi's lieutenants, and 55 volunteers in the anti-salt law campaign were arrested with quantities of salt manufactured illegally. The salt was confiscated. Kothari was sentenced to pay a fine 500 rupees, or serve six months in jail.

Ramdas Gandhi, the leader's son, was arrested with four volunteers at Bhimrad village and taken to Surat to face a charge of gathering salt. The magistrate ordered to release them on their own recognizances, but they refused, and the trial was set for Tuesday.

Police also confiscated a large quantity of salt collected in Jalapur and Bardoli subdivisions by volunteers. Beyond these cases there was no indication of an immediate repression campaign against the salt-law violators, although police were ordered in various centers to be ready for emergencies.

Strikers on the great Indian peninsula railway joined in the campaign, stopping all trains passing the place. Police fired on rioting strikers at Thana, injuring seven. The strikers tried passive resistance at Thana, an effort to halt the trains. Thana, acting as police, beat them off. Nine strikers, including two leaders, have been arrested thus far. Six have been tried and sentenced to three weeks' rigorous imprisonment.

Wades in Sea.

Gandhi initiated the civil disobedience campaign by wading into the sea at the end of his 200-mile march, and collecting water in earthen vessels to be heated for the manufacture of salt. The act of disobedience was a violation of the salt law, which forbids the collection of salt from the sea.

Gandhi, wearing a white dhoti and a shawl, was seen by the police. He was not molested. He was seen by the police. He was not molested. He was seen by the police. He was not molested.

In a statement to the press immediately after his wading into the sea against the salt tax should be accompanied by a proper campaign of propaganda for the boycotting of foreign cloth and prohibition of liquor. He also indicated he was preparing a message to the women of India, who, he said, can make a larger contribution to the struggle than men.

"Now that a technical or ceremonial breach of the salt law has been committed, such a course is open to anyone who will break the law," he said. "My advice is that workers should everywhere manufacture salt and where they know how, prepare and clean salt and use it and instruct the villagers to do likewise. At the same time the village should be told that he runs the risk of prosecution. In other words, the villagers should be fully instructed as regards the salt law and the manner of breaking the regulations connected with it, so as to have the salt tax repealed. It should be made clear to the villagers that the breach is open and that such conduct is no way stealthy."

"They may help themselves to salt manufactured through nature in creeks and pits near the seashore, and use it themselves or for their cattle, and sell it to those who will buy, it being well understood that all such conduct is breaking the law and is a punishable offense, or being subjected by the so-called salt officers to harassment."

"This," against the salt tax, should be continued during "National Week," that is, up to April 13. Those engaged in this sacred work should devote themselves to rigorous propaganda for a boycott against foreign cloth and the prohibition of liquor. I am preparing a message now for the women of India, who are becoming more and more convinced, and make a larger contribution than men toward the attainment of independence."

Gandhi also dictated the following message to the children of India: "Let the kiddies spin while their elders court jail."

The policemen appeared on the scene while Gandhi was breaking the salt law.

COAST-TO-COAST FLIGHT IN GLIDER PROVES SUCCESS

Hawks Lands at New York After Epochal Tour in Powerless Plane To Stir Interest.

NEW YORK, April 6.—(AP)—Its Bright vermilion wings gleaming in a leaden sky, the frail little glider Eagle cut loose from its towing plane and coasted gracefully to earth in Van Courtlandt park late today to end the first transcontinental flight in a motorless ship. In its tiny glass-enclosed cockpit, up forward where the engine would be in an airplane, sat Captain Frank M. Hawks, the smiling young man who holds both the eastward and westward records for non-stop transcontinental airplane flights.

He was welcomed to New York by his wife and an official committee headed by Police Commissioner Grover A. Whalen, while a crowd of several thousand, which circled the huge parade ground and pressed eagerly against the restraining police lines, cheered.

Captain Hawks, who left San Diego, Cal., last Sunday morning, brought with him a pilot's log, the gift of Mayor Harry C. Clark, of San Diego, to the city of New York. Bronx Park Commissioner Thomas Dolan planted it on the ground at the southwest corner of the parade ground where the Eagle came to a stop. Commissioner Whalen turned over the pilot's log to Captain Hawks.

The glider, in tow of a plane piloted by J. D. "Duke" Jennings, Jr., came here today from Buffalo on the wing of its trip from 117 p. m. at the southwest corner of the parade ground where the Eagle came to a stop. Commissioner Whalen turned over the pilot's log to Captain Hawks.

At an altitude of 4,500 feet Hawks cut loose the tow cable, circled the park several times and coasted down to a landing at 4:17 p. m. Jennings flew to the Newark (N. J.) airport, where a crowd of 10,000 greeted him. He said the trip from Albany and the worst part of the entire journey. There was rain and they had to buck a 40-mile headwind which cut the aerial train's speed to a crawl. It took 40 hours. This delayed their arrival over New York city nearly an hour.

Jennings left the Newark field with a delegation of anti-aircraft officers, who escorted him to the city of Washington, D. C., where he will be held tonight at 8:30 o'clock.

The remainder of today's program is given over to social and entertainment features preliminary to the scores of important divisional sessions to be held each day beginning Tuesday.

Among the early arrivals who poured into Atlanta from every section of the country and from abroad were Dr. William McPherson, of Ohio State University, president of the Society for the Study of the History of Washington, D. C., editor of Industrial Engineering.

City Primary Plan Due To Pass Today

CHEMISTS OPEN MEETING TODAY

Registration of 1,500 Delegates To Be First Order of 5-Day Convention.

Council of the borough of Atlanta, in its semi-monthly meeting today, is expected to take positive action on the resolution of Councilman Joseph E. Berman, of the fourth ward, and officially take steps to bring ward politics in the city to an end.

In addition to 23 of the 39 members of the general council who are pledged to support the Berman proposal, it has received formidable support in the indorsement of Mayor Ragsdale, former Mayors Walter A. Sims and James L. Key and a large group of well known civic leaders.

Designed primarily to abolish the evils of ward politics, the Berman resolution, if adopted, will transmit to the city democratic executive committee a request of council that the nomination of all its members hereafter be made in primaries in which voters of the entire borough, as distinguished from a ward, may participate.

Millican Withdraws Move.

The resignation of Councilman Harry York, of the sixth ward, is expected to be accepted by city council without any opposition this afternoon, Alderman G. Everett Spratt, of the tenth ward, having decided to withdraw his demand for impeachment of the convicted graftier.

"I will have nothing to say when the York resignation is submitted," Alderman Millican said Sunday night. "I merely will vote for its immediate acceptance."

While it is expected that council will accept the resignation of York, who has been convicted on bribery counts and sentenced to a term in the Fulton county jail, it is regarded unlikely that any move will be taken at the meeting today toward selecting a successor to him.

Mayor Ragsdale will sign the Berman resolution, about final passage of which there is now little doubt. It will then be sent to the city democratic executive committee.

A session of the committee will be called, J. P. Wall, chairman has announced within the next few weeks and Mr. Wall has stated that he will insist that the matter be placed before the entire committee for disposal. Mr. Wall has also announced that he will present to the committee a proposal to elect W. A. Sutton, city superintendent of schools, and the city clerk by popular vote. If it is determined to take the city clerk for the committee, and they are approved, legislative action would have to follow in order to provide machinery for election.

Members Favoring Plan.

Members of council favoring the Berman resolution are Philip W. Breitenbach, of the first ward, Howard C. McCutcheon, of the second; Charles L. Chosewood, of the third; Joseph E. Berman, and John A. Willy, of the fourth; W. C. Jenkins, and James T. Osburn, of the seventh; James L. Wells, of the eighth; Raleigh E. Drennon, of the ninth; W. D. Hoffman, of the tenth; Ed A. ### FIREMEN BATTLE IN VAIN TO SAVE 4-STORY BUILDING

Disastrous Blaze Believed to Have Started in Kitchen of Church Restaurant in Basement.

PEACHTREE STREET TRAFFIC BLOCKED

Dr. L. G. Baggett, Seeking to Save Office Records, Carried to Safety.

Fire, originating in the pantry of the St. Luke's church restaurant, located in the basement, spreading over electric wires to the elevator shaft and leaping to the top floor of the middle unit, early Sunday night destroyed the Doctors' building at the corner of Peachtree and Pine streets. The estimated loss ranges from $500,000 to $750,000.

Fanned by an alternating wind, the flames shot rapidly to the fourth and top floor of the building and quickly burst from one office to another and then from the central unit to the front and rear sections of the building. Gaining headway on the top floors all three units, the flames cut through floor after floor until the entire structure was a mass of flames. Between 20,000 and 30,000 persons watched the fire, with which seven fire companies battled for several hours.

Twelve X-ray machines, ranging in cost from $5,000 to $25,000 each, were listed in the principal losses sustained by the doctors and dentists who occupied the building. Few of them carried insurance, although the building itself, originally a part of the J. K. Orr estate and owned by Mrs. P. W. Miller, was insured.

Both the fire department and threatening, the fire proved to be one of the most disastrous the city has suffered in many years. Traffic from North avenue to Church street, which was blocked as the thousands of miles, milled in the area surrounding the burning building.

Dr. L. G. Baggett, occupying offices on the third floor, fainted as he attempted to leave the building after recovering a part of his office records, but was carried to safety by alert firefighters. Several firemen also were temporarily overcome by smoke fumes, but were resuscitated and continued their efforts to check the spreading flames.

Janitor Discovers Fire.

Mell Glass, janitor in the building, discovered the fire as he started to clean the offices shortly after 8 o'clock. When he went into the basement he was met by a cloud of smoke, which was shortly succeeded by darting flames, flaming the electric wires of the basement and running to the elevator shaft.

As Glass and a helper started to leave the building, Dr. L. J. Jamerson, of the Prior Fire Company, located across Pine street, saw the flames and sounded the alarm. Company 1 responded at 8:25 and in quick succession Companies 3, 4, 6, 8, 11 and 15—the latter two answering the three-alarm signal—sped to the blaze, then enveloping all three units of the building. Fire Chief George Terrell and Assistant Chiefs O. J. Parker and William Butler were on the scene and directed the determined but futile effort to check the flames.

Besides the physical loss, both doctors and dentists occupying the building suffered an indeterminate loss in the burning of their office records, including their book accounts and, in a number of cases, valuable case records which, in some instances, represented clinical work covering a period of 10 years.

As the firemen battled with the furious flames, jumping from the central unit to the front and then to the rear, rising 40 feet in midair and then sweeping through the composite structure and descending from the top floor

Negro Confesses Murdering Youth

DUBUQUE, Iowa, April 6.—(AP)—Anthony Mann, 40, negro, confessed slayer of Earl Tague, 16-year-old St. Paul youth, was returned to St. Paul today in the custody of Minnesota officials after his arrest last night by

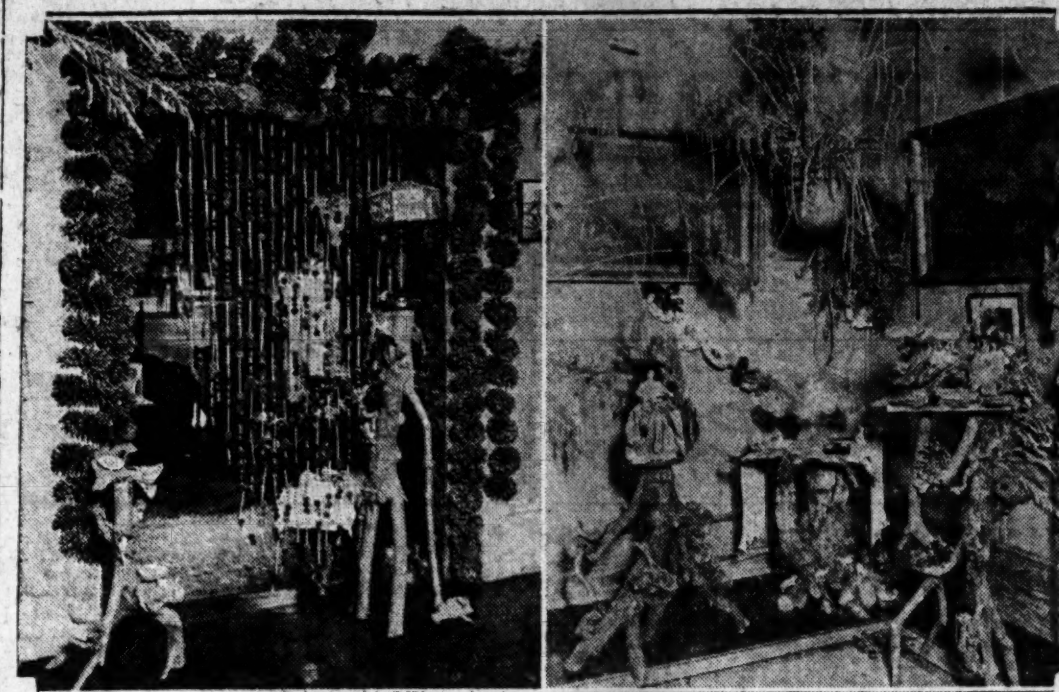

Dubuque officers as he hopped off a freight train. Mann confessed he had lured the boy to his home, beaten him about the head with a pick, stripped him and took the body to a lonely spot along a railroad track near the St. Paul airport. He gave no reason for killing the boy in his statement to Chief of Police John G. Giellis. Authorities described the slayer as being sub-normal mentally.

After the killing Mann said he boarded a freight train for Oelwein, Iowa, where he was seen yesterday afternoon. He disappeared before police could effect a capture, but was later apprehended at Dubuque, after a warning had been broadcast to Iowa cities.

The Tague youth was last seen riding a bicycle in the direction of Mann's shack late Friday. His body was found yesterday by two garage employees. Dr. Roy C. Heron, deputy coroner, said that death was caused by strangulation. Marks on his wrists and ankles indicated he had been bound with wire and rope.

Joseph C. Tague, father of the victim, said Mann had lured Earl away with a promise of earning 50 cents by beating rugs.

Grotesque Beauty and Ornate Utility Is Theme of Unique Hapeville Home

Grotesque beauty, combined with ornate utility is the theme of the unique interior of the suburban home of Mrs. Ida M. McGee, near Hapeville, two rooms of which are shown in the above photographs. On the left is shown a lovely rustic arch made of halved pine cones, lacquered to a charming patina, with a sweetgum-burr "portiere" separating the living and guest rooms, while on the right is a corner of Mrs. McGee's dining room, with fairylike grasses and oddily-shaped roots used as table-stands and other decorations.

BY WILLIAM O. KEY, JR.

On the outskirts of Hapeville, surrounded by tall, stately pine trees and a velvety expanse of smoothly cut grass, stands one of the most unusually decorated and furnished houses in the world.

In this out-of-the-way spot, known to suburban residents only as Mooreland way and Maple street, the cottage of Mrs. Ida M. McGee, before her marriage to Mr. McGee, the widow of Dr. A. F. Bueren, of Louisville, Ky., attracts visitors from all parts of the world who, having heard of its curios and wonders, flock to the quaint little house that isn't so little after all once you stand on the inside. It has seven rooms.

It is what those seven rooms contain that draws the throngs of tourists or the lone motorist passing by. Within them is the largest and most complete collection of bizarre, yet artistic, fashionings of handwork imaginable and every single item of decoration or furnishing with the theme of grotesque beauty and ornate utility. Standard household furniture is made of old tree roots, oddily-shaped tree joints, burls and cones, prairie grass and the thistle-like herbage.

Mrs. McGee has accumulated these curiosities within the last five years, and she has made them all with her own hand. This despite the handicap that she is one-armed, having been born with but a single arm. Under her keen eye for artistry, grotesquely-shaped roots have been transformed into things of household utility; giant pine cones have been patiently split in two and a portiere curtain unlike any other curtain in the world has resulted in a symmetrical perfect door screen between her living room and bedroom.

Forest Brought to Home.

Mrs. McGee literally has brought the forest to her home. From acorns to just plain old roots, limbs and tree tops she deftly has worked them to her use. For instance, there are gilded roots fashioned attractively into vases, fruit baskets, umbrella stands, cigar stands, manicure sets, hair receivers, tables of all descriptions, hat racks, tie racks, shoe racks, floor lamps, picture frames and flower pots—even a pocketbook rack.

As you meander through the confusing array of rooms garished with "wild flowers and grasses" you will run across all manner of queer contraptions which turn out, however, to be useful articles. On entering the cozy little reception hall the visitor is confronted with a root-built depiction of a "way-down-south scene showing a country cabin bedecked with snow-white cotton bolls and a figure of an old negro mammy standing in the doorway with a country broom, grinning in welcome. Nearby, the old-fashioned painted and gilded "No Strangers Here," and indeed you are made to feel at home by the pleasant little woman who lives alone there.

Other interesting features of the interior are an old-time fireplace, antique andirons and a mantel laden with wild flowers; a lone deer poised nearby seems about to risk a drink from the ancient well-bucket at its feet—all made from gilded roots and malformed branches. The entire sitting room abounds in relics of the forest. Little birds with their nests and eggs, wild ducks and turkeys look as natural as if they were in their own habitat. Wild flowers everywhere—flowers and shrubbery, heathery grasses and ornamental tree limbs and branches weave in and out as a background of nature throughout the cottage. Cat-tails, princess feathers, wild ribbon grass arranged in attractive clusters and placed in odd vases contribute to the general nature scheme.

An interesting feature of these decorations is that they apparently are in a state of preservation that makes them shatter-proof. The most fragile grasses, the liciest of garlands woven from tiny leaves withstand the touch even years after they have been plucked. Mrs. McGee claims to know exactly when one should gather woodland decorations to prevent their shedding, and that she does not know how to impart this strange knowledge to anyone else.

"Do you mean," she was asked, "that you cannot give such information or that you would not divulge your secret?" "I mean," she asserted, "that even if I wanted to I could not because I never know myself until the very moment I want to gather such decorations."

In like manner she declares that her method of varnishing the pine cones and sweetgum burls so that a metallic patina is achieved is a secret process but that no one else ever has been able to repeat it when they try. She professes no belief in anything bordering the supernatural in this respect, explaining merely by saying that she achieves the artistic effects only when moved to create her odd effects.

In a way the whole interior is heavy with an air of enchantment—with frothy clusters of grass, numerous big glass globular receptacles suspended by wires connected to the ceiling, a monkey head peeping saucily out of a cavity in a sylvan arrangement, and moderate touches here and there carrying the creations beyond the range of artistry into the grotesque.

There are many other attractions that escape description, but among the teeming stands that draw the eye one may see a butter dish of sterling silver that is a true antiquity—dating back more than a century and a half; a silver water pitcher that looks like a huge coffee pot but which is balanced to tipple in a stand of its own; an eighty-year old china closet, war fruit made by Mrs. McGee's mother more than 50 years ago; a stuffed crane shot on the Ohio river in years long gone by.

Amid all this conglomeration of nature lives Mrs. McGee alone. Her husband, J. D. McGee, merchant, died recently and, aside from a young negro girl who helps about the house, only the occasional group of tourists or the stragglers who knock at her door. She has nothing to sell, although many collectors have pestered her for her butter dish and the old water pitcher and other genuine articles. She charges no admission and while she admits that it usually is necessary to clean up after a troop of visitors has gone through her cottage she always is glad to let people see what they have come to see.

She came to Georgia from Louisville about 12 years ago. Her first husband, Dr. Bueren, was prominently connected with the Buerens of the Blue Grass estate and she says she is known more largely as a Bueren than as a McGee. She likes Georgia, but her first love is Kentucky where, she opines humorously, "they used to raise fast horses and pretty women. Now it is pretty horses and fast women." And she has a smile and welcome for every one, though it usually means more work. But the world is beating a path to her door, although it lies not exactly in the wilderness but in an out-of-way region off the main road that defies direction.

Hoover Returns To Capital Grind

WASHINGTON, April 6.—(UN)—In a somewhat dangerous 100-mile automobile trip, President Hoover returned to Washington this evening from his week-end of fishing, rest and relaxation in the Blue Ridge mountains of Virginia.

A driving rainstorm fell during the president's return trip but he reached the White House at 5:30 p. m., taking only three hours and 15 minutes for the journey.

The trip from the mountain fishing camp at the source waters of the Rapidan was an uncomfortable one and at times dangerous. The mountain roads, where a slip of a few feet would have meant disaster, were soft under the heavy rain.

Along the Virginia highways the president's party passed three wrecked automobiles and several others that were being towed or were mired in the mud. At one point near Warren, where the road is under repair, the president's big limousine bounced and bumped along in muddy ruts a foot deep.

Mr. Hoover saw the backwoods school which he has established near his camp for the first time this morning. He called on Miss Christine West, the school teacher, for a few minutes and inspected the combination schoolroom and living quarters. Mr. Hoover arrived too early for the Sunday school exercises which are conducted weekly but a few of the mountain folk who had straggled in chatted for a few minutes with the president. He did not remain to speak to the meeting as a whole. There was no fishing on the Sabbath.

Wealthy Oil Man Kills Wife and Self

DALLAS, Texas, April 6.—(AP)—Augustus Philip Minchew, 49, wealthy independent oil operator, shot his wife to death and then killed himself at the Minchew home here today after a family quarrel. A coroner's verdict of homicide and suicide by Minchew was given.

Minchew was manager of the Yates Oil Pool Development Syndicate. Ora Robinson, negro maid, told officers the Minchews were quarreling and that Minchew left his wife, entered the bathroom and returned a moment later with something in his hands. Sensing trouble, the maid said she took Ada, Minchew's 3-year-old daughter of the couple, and went downstairs. Nancy, a 6-month-old daughter, was in the room when her mother was killed. Minchew then returned to the bathroom and shot himself.

The couple had been married four years. She was the oil man's second wife.

Could I Arrange for an Investment Program That Would Finance Retirement from Business in Twenty Years? Do You Have Any Suggestions to Offer?

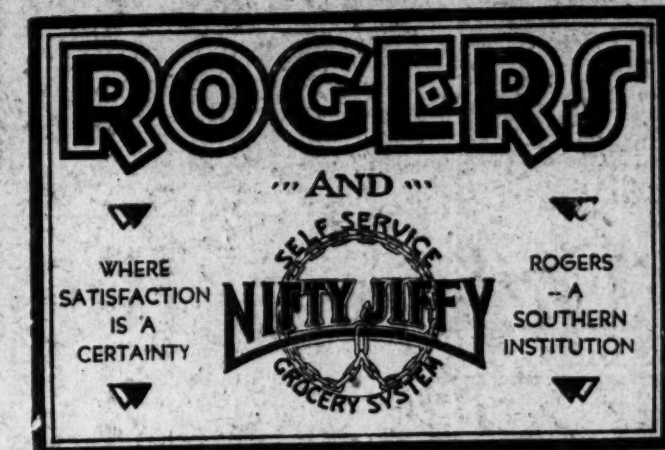

By saving regularly each month for a number of years, a retirement fund can be established that will enable any one with regular employment to build an income that will finance an old age of independence and comfort in later years. For instance, $40.00 saved each month and invested in Southern Natural Gas Corporation Preferred Shares will be $20,734.00 in 20 years. During this period, $9,000.00 would be the amount actually paid in, while $11,734.00 represents the interest that would be earned at 7% and paid into the account over a 20-year period. This figure may be doubled or trebled, according to circumstances, by increasing the number of payments in proportion to the amount desired. For any information concerning our $7.00 Preferred Shares, communicate with us, Southern Natural Gas Corporation, Rhodes-Haverty Building, Atlanta, Ga.—(adv.)

Chemists To Talk of Many Things at Convention Here

EXAMPLE: DO PIGEONS GIVE MILK?

BY WILLIAM O. KEY, JR.
Atlanta Monday becomes the five-day residence of something less than 2,000 of the world's most outstanding scientists.

They are the chemical scientists—the 1,500 savants leaders among the 18,000 members of the American Chemical Society which begins its five-day 79th semi-annual convention in Atlanta Monday. They are the men who will hold the attention of the entire scientific world, whose eyes will be glued to that little star on the map that marks "Atlanta," and chemists in Kauchaka, Port Said, Tientsin, Shanghai, Johannesburg and Lapete will await with eager interest many of the revelations that will be carried out of Atlanta over press wires this week.

New discoveries, new developments, new ideas—announcements that will in all probability turn many old theories topsy-turvy and result in great strides being made in perfecting this thing called civilization as it affects that other thing called the human being.

Milk From Pigeons?
Do pigeons produce milk? You laugh. It is not our question—it is a serious investigation that came before the division of biological chemistry Tuesday afternoon when Dr. R. H. Carr and Dr. C. M. James, who are interested very much on this score, will try to give the right answer. Here's another: What is the potency of Arkansas sunshine? That, too, is a real, honest-to-goodness matter that the same division of those so-

GIVES $3.50 TRUSS TO RUPTURED MEN

Pay No Money, Now or Ever, For This Truss, Says Doctor-Inventor.

Kansas City, Mo.—To help introduce an easy method that has helped thousands upon thousands of people, Dr. Andrew Kaiser, well-known Hernia Expert, offers to give a $3.50 truss to any one with a ruptured. His newer method does away with leg straps, elastic belts and cruel binding springs. Many people, some with very bad ruptures, have declared it brought them quick improvement and freedom from the hampering and discomfort of previous truss wearing. By its proper holding it gives Nature a chance to strengthen and build up the weakened tissues and muscles and thus has assisted in the healing of many people. The method is sent on 30 days' trial. If it does not help, return it, with no cost for the trial. The $3.50 truss is yours just for making this trial. Take notice, it is not a gift. Write today to Dr. Andrew Kaiser, 1222 Koch Bldg., 2906 Main St., Kansas City, Mo. He wants one person in each neighborhood to whom he may refer.—(adv.)

trial and Engineering Chemistry. Dr. Howe will deliver the only public lecture incident to the convention when he speaks Wednesday night at 8:30 o'clock at the Shrine mosque on the subject, "Chemistry Comes South."

Bacteria vs. Machines.
In Atlanta Sunday Dr. Howe discussed the important discovery that ferments are a new ally to mankind, declaring that bacteria offers promise as a substitute for machinery. Listed by the chemical industry, he asserted, they are proving fast and willing workers "when properly schooled, housed and fed."

"Now, if any, workmen can be employed so cheaply as ferments," Dr. Howe said. "All they demand is food, satisfactory living quarters and certain special adjustments in moisture, temperature and acidity, with protection from their enemies; and they work without reference to time or wages."

That Whale Gland.
Of course, such a mob of scientists couldn't get together in prescribed form without talking over the whale's pituitary gland. Just what that has to do with the disarrangement conference or food relief isn't quite clear in this writing, but before the convention is over probably Atlantans will be made to see some resemblance to the pituitary gland and the fire-power pack, if any.

And we almost overlooked another fact. How are your hydroxyphenylpropanolamines today? Do you have that dizzy feeling when you read this? Pains in the neck? See black spots? All probability that is caused by your hydroxyphenylpropanolamines being out of whack with your dimethylphenylpyrazolones—in which case you'd better bet on the Athletics this year.

At any rate, those 1,500 chemists that begin arriving today—or divisions of them—are going to take those long words apart and tell the world what makes them that way and how come. And we are letting you off with just a few of the easier subjects to come up. Otherwise it might be risky. If we really went into the difficult subjects there might be a mild outbreak of concussion or the brain among readers in Atlanta.

TAYLOR SEEKING CHANGE OF VENUE

Special Prosecutor William Schley Howard, who has prepared the state's case against the purchasing agent, will defend W. W. Fowler, railway mail clerk, at his trial in Griffin Wednesday for the slaying of Paul Hutchinson, a railroad man killed several months ago in a baggage car argument near Griffin. Mr. Howard said Sunday night that it was impossible for him to get a continuance in the Fowler case and that his presence in Griffin was necessary Wednesday. Judge Humphries is reported to have agreed to the state's request to get the trial of Price completed in one day, and is ready to hold a night session if necessary.

W. R. Hollingsworth and A. A. Marshall, attorneys for the purchasing agent, said Sunday night that they have completed their plans for Price's defense and will make no effort to delay or drag out the trial when it is called by Judge Humphries Tuesday morning.

Jury to Meet Today.
The grand jury is to meet at 10 o'clock this morning and take up where it left off Saturday when the new and startling information advanced by the indicted former city official caused it to delay its projected indictments.

Solicitor-General Boykin Sunday declared he was unable to say if the projected indictments would be returned today but said that every effort was being made to speed the work.

"We have so much to go into and so many witnesses to be heard that I would only be guessing if I attempted to predict what would be accomplished tomorrow," Mr. Boykin said. The resignation of York is expected to be accepted by the city council in any opposition at its meeting this afternoon. Alderman G. Everett Millican, of the tenth ward, having declined to withdraw his demand for impeachment of the convicted grafter.

Daughter of Booth Will Preach Here

CHICAGO, April 6.—(AP)—Fire swept three buildings on the north side of the loop early Saturday, causing damage estimated by Fire Marshal Michael J. Corrigan at between $200,000 and $300,000.

One fourth of the city's fire-fighting equipment was called before the blaze was brought under control. Service on the elevated lines was disrupted for a time as the firemen used the platforms to fight the blaze, and street traffic was held up for hours. An explosion in a radio manufacturing shop is believed to have started the fire.

Action of Culture.
"If a culture of this organism made from brewers' malt is mixed with integrated nuts, such as copra, together with a weighed amount of ground limestone, and sufficient water to form a mush, and the resulting mixture is placed in an incubator at the desired temperature, with exclusion of air, active growth takes place. The color of the oil produced is superior to the average obtained by the usual pressure methods, and its melting point is normal. If the bacterial process is applied to fresh nuts, a water-white oil of exceptionally high quality is obtained."

Brady Under Knife.
NEW YORK, April 6.—(AP)—William A. Brady, veteran Broadway theatrical manager, underwent an operation for appendicitis at a sanitarium today. His physician reported that Brady was in good physical condition for the operation, but he has been ill two weeks.

KIN OF SLAIN WIFE SAY CARVER INNOCENT

Mother-in-Law and Father and Brother Stand by Floridian.

SEBRING, Fla., April 6.—(AP)—Indicted last night by Highlands county grand jury on first degree murder charges for a triple slaying at his home here last Wednesday, William R. Carver, formerly a Philadelphia real estate man, will be arraigned on April 14.

Carver's father and brother, who reside in Miami, visited him in jail today. Mrs. H. C. Boardman, of Chicago, mother of Mrs. Carver, also arrived and spent a time with her son-in-law.

Mrs. Boardman said that Carver declared "I have lost everything dear to me. My life is ruined." She said he reiterated his innocence and declared she would "stand behind him." She said the Carvers' married life had been "very happy" and they were "very devoted to each other."

Roy Carver, of Miami, the brother, told the prisoner "to bear up, you have plenty of friends." He scoffed at the idea that Carver had committed the deed charged in the indictments.

Samuel Carver, the father, told newspapermen that he had informed his son that Judge W. H. Bell, Alexandria, who has been engaged as a defense counsel, will come here tomorrow to see him.

Carver was said by officers to have spent part of today pacing up and down the corridor of the jail. They said he was not communicative except to relatives who visited him.

Clear Weather Seen for Today By Weatherman

Following a dreary, soggy Saturday the elements Sunday made appreciable restitution to meteorologically depressed Atlanta by providing a clear and moderately cool day.

Motors and sport devotees with the aid of a kindly sun were permitted during every hour of the Sabbath to indulge in their favorite recreation under weather conditions approaching ideal.

Sunday's temperature range was from 50 to 66. "Fair" was the weatherman's terse forecast for today.

SEARCH FOR SCHOONER MISSING TWO WEEKS

SAN PEDRO, Cal., April 6.—(AP)—With the schooner Alice, under command of Captain Tim Moon, unreported for two weeks, a search among fishing craft for someone who may have knowledge of her fate was begun here Saturday.

The vessel, carrying a crew of eight, transported a cargo of machinery to Turtle Bay, Mexico, 325 miles south of here, and began her return trip two weeks ago. She was scheduled to call at San Quintin, Mexico, 100 miles north of Turtle Bay, for a shipment of oysters to be delivered here.

Officials of Tom White, Inc., the company that owned the ship, said she may have gone down. So far as is known the Alice did not reach San Quintin.

Dr. McElveen Talks Of 'Spiritual Realities'

In his sermon Sunday on "Some Explorations in the World of Spiritual Realities," the Rev. W. T. McElveen, of the United Congregational church, said: "The spiritual world is not a vague dreamland of a realm of illusion. It is a real world. The world of matter is actual; it will pass away. The world of the spirit is everlasting; it will abide forever. Michael Pupin, an acknowledged expert in how material things came to be, says that the findings of spiritual experience have as much right to be called spiritual science as the experiences in a chemist's laboratory have the right to be called physical science. There is no quarrel between science and religion. Science has to do with explaining the actual material universe. Religion has to do with the real spiritual universe. The scientist and the Christian are not talking about the same group of facts. They are explaining different worlds."

"To be spiritually-minded is not to have a neurotic temperament, or to be inauspiciously pious. Spirituality is not feverish religiosity."

Official of Tom White, Inc., the company that owned the ship, said she may have gone down. So far as is known the Alice did not reach San Quintin.

Prize Campaign Progresses Steadily as Days Roll Past

Constitution's Contest Is Still in Its Infancy. Early Entry Is Urged.

Growing steadily in popular favor and interest, the credit race to decide the winners of the 18 automobiles, gold, and 20 radios on the $25,000 list which The Atlanta Constitution is to award successful candidates May 31, is just getting under way. Because of the tremendous credit premium turned on new subscriptions allowed in on or before April 19, the first period of the campaign for credits stands out as one of predominant importance to those determined to share in a big way in the record-breaking distribution of awards. By taking advantage of the early road to a peak position in the credit race now while new subscriptions are worth more in credits than they will be at any later time in the campaign, an alert aspirant for high reward will make it difficult for anyone postponing action to pass him or her in the credit race later. This results from the fact that the regular prizes can be won only by credits, that credits can be earned only on subscriptions (other than the 5,000 credits allowed on nominations) and that there will be a decrease in the number of extra credits allowed on new subscriptions after Atlanta starts now.

Very few subscriptions mark the difference between entrants with only the 5,000 entry credits to their credit, and those who have made an active start in the race by turning in subscriptions. It is for this reason that the campaign department is confident that the next few days will see not only a number of new candidates entering the campaign, but also an energetic start by those still at the starting point.

Great Interest in Awards. Renewed interest is being shown by the public in the prizes to be awarded. Many entrants and their friends are calling at the various agencies handling the automobiles to be given. The feeling that the offer of the 18 cars, gold awards, 20 Atwater Kent radios and cash commissions, for a few weeks of spare time effort presents an opportunity that ambitious men and women cannot afford to neglect, has caused the unrivaled amount of enthusiasm which is being displayed over the offer. The campaign is still in its infancy and anyone entering now will practically be on an even footing with those already entered as very little has been done so far in the way of getting subscriptions. If you are desirous of entering the campaign, do so NOW at the start while new subscriptions count big for credits.

$40,000 Said Taken From Slain Chicagoan

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., April 6. (P)—Search for two men believed to have been connected with the killing near Titusville a week ago of J. Pavlakos of Chicago, occupied authorities along the east coast of Florida today. Pavlakos' body was identified by a woman who said she was his sister, after it had been believed that he was J. Barton, of New York.

Officials here also sought trace of $40,000 in cash and securities, which they believed was responsible for the killing of Pavlakos. According to Constable T. O. Milton, a Mrs. Foster, of New York and Palm Beach, reported that she had been victimized by Pavlakos and two men while she was at Daytona Beach to attend speed trials. The woman said she met Pavlakos on a boat en route from New York to Jacksonville. She visited the hotel room of Pavlakos in connection with a scheme to bet on races, involving her story. While she and Pavlakos were in the room, two men entered, posing as Daytona Beach and New York detectives. They took the woman and Pavlakos to the entrance of the local police station, she related, but promised to release them for $40,000.

She returned to Palm Beach, the constable said, where she got the sum and gave it to Pavlakos, reporting to police there that it had been stolen. Pavlakos is believed to have withheld the sum from the other two men, and authorities here expressed belief that his death had resulted from that action.

Rummage "Clean-Up" Is Planned by Army

Rummage discarded in Atlanta homes during spring house cleaning activity will be sought by the Salvation Army in a special two weeks' collection beginning today, a week in advance of the official "clean-up" week, sponsored by the women's division of the Chamber of Commerce. The special collection, announced Saturday by Ensign Hugo Bloomer, officer in charge of the social service center, will be made in co-operation with the annual clean-up week, but will begin ahead of the official week in order to avert a heavier deluge of calls than the army's limited facilities can meet during that period.

Enough trucks have been obtained, he said, to answer calls from 250 Atlanta homes each day and one will be sent on phone call to Jackson 2224 to get old paper, rags, clothing or furniture which may be discarded during house cleaning.

Saved From Flames, Woman Is Improved

Although burned severely before a 14-year-old girl rescued her from an open fireplace into which she had fallen after a fainting spell late Saturday night, Mrs. Bernice Brewton, 26, of 71 Fifth street, N. W., was reported improved Sunday at the home of her sister, Mrs. C. W. Reed, at 542 St. Charles avenue, N. E.

Mrs. Brewton, who occupies an apartment at the home of Mrs. Minnie Willis at the Fifth street address, was saved from probable death by Mrs. Willis' daughter, Mildred, who was visiting Mrs. Brewton's apartment at the time she collapsed and fell in the fire.

STERILIZATION LAW UPHELD BY COURT

BEATRICE Neb., April 5. (P)—The constitutionality of that part of the Nebraska sterilization law requiring sterilization of feeble minded persons, under certain conditions, was upheld today by District Judge E. W. Mesmore. At the same time he held unconstitutional its application to insane patients and habitual criminals. The court ruled that insanity differs from feeble mindedness in that insane persons sometimes are cured, and that the law is too broad to be constitutional where habitual criminals are concerned. Attorneys for a feeble minded youth the state sought to sterilize announced they would appeal to the state supreme court.

Famous Pianist To Appear Here Thursday Night

Isabelle Yalkovsky, National Music League artist, who is to appear here at 8:30 o'clock Thursday night in the Woman's Club auditorium, under the auspices of the local committee of the Schubert memorial, is one of the country's important young pianists. She was presented last season by the Schubert Memorial Association as soloist with the New York Philharmonic-Symphony orchestra, under the baton of Ossip Gabrilowitch, at Carnegie Hall, New York, and this season she has been engaged as soloist at the regular symphony concerts of the Philadelphia, Detroit, Cleveland, San Francisco, Los Angeles and Denver Civic symphony and philharmonic orchestras.

Miss Yalkovsky was born of Russian parents in Philadelphia, and when she was very young she moved with her parents to Chicago, where she received her early music training under Esther Harris and Henoit Levy. She made her debut in April, 1922, appearing as soloist with members of the Chicago Symphony orchestra. At that time Herman Devries, Chicago music critic, wrote: "This child is only 13 years old and already gives ample and evident proof of more than artistic precocity."

The parents of Isabelle Yalkovsky were wise. Instead of allowing her to accept immediate engagements which were offered her, they sent her to New York for further study. There she won a fellowship in the class of Olga Samaroff at the Juilliard Foundation Graduate school. She took theory and esthetic with Franklin Robinson, harmony and counterpoint with Rubin Goldmark, chamber music with Georges Enesco and Felix Salmond, and orchestral conducting with Albert Stoessel. She was offered a vocal scholarship and studied singing for a time with Leon Rothier and Paul Reimann.

Tickets go on sale Monday at Phillips & Crew Piano Company, 235 Peachtree street. Admission is $1, and special rate of 50¢ to students in blocks of 10 tickets.

Jefferson Birthday Widely Celebrated

WASHINGTON, April 6. (P)—Tributes to the memory of Thomas Jefferson, founder of the democratic party, will be paid in every section of the United States next week at celebrations of the 187th anniversary of his birth.

The democratic national committee announced tonight that his birthday would be celebrated more widely this year than ever before. Reports received by the committee indicated between 1,100 and 1,200 meetings would be held to commemorate the anniversary.

Since the birthday of Jefferson falls this year on next Sunday most of the celebrations will be held the following Monday with a few scattered through the remainder of the week. In some states the democratic committee said, meetings will be held in every county.

A number of the addresses will be delivered over the radio, including that of Dr. Edward A. Alderman, president of the University of Virginia, who will speak at 10:30 p. m. April 14 over a nationwide hookup arranged by the National Broadcasting system.

Young Parents Claim Deserted Infant

OPELOUSAS, La., April 6. (P)—The three-month-old infant boy, abandoned last week by his parents, was claimed today by a youthful couple who said they were Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Nazet, of New Jersey.

The baby, a small amount of money and note instructing in infant care, left last Thursday upon the home doorstep of a negro woman had been turned over to police, who placed the infant in a local sanitarium.

Today the couple returned to the negro woman's home and the young mother became hysterical upon learning that police had taken charge of her baby, but composed herself when the infant was surrendered by sanitarium officials.

Nazet said the baby had been temporarily abandoned because of the mother's "illness." He said they had motored into Texas and that machine trouble had delayed their return. Of future plans he only said: "We are going back to New Jersey." The automobile in which they departed bore the license number 8-15881.

The monthly meeting of the Georgia Section, American Society of Civil Engineers, will be held at 12:10 o'clock today at the Atlanta Athletic Club and members of the student chapters of Georgia Tech and the University of Georgia will be guests. The feature of the program will be the showing of a moving picture, "The Modern Goliath" or "The Story of Heavy Excavating Machinery."

Dabney Gets $10,000 In False Arrest Suit

C. E. Dabney was awarded $10,000 damages Saturday against the Central of Georgia railroad as the result of a suit filed by him on the grounds of false arrest and imprisonment in connection with a case three years ago when he was acquitted of a charge of interstate shipment thefts.

Dabney had been a shipping clerk for the railroad for 15 years. It was brought out in his suit for damages that he had been held for several days before a warrant for his arrest was issued and that he was arrested on the testimony of two box car thieves later convicted and sentenced. His suit asked $25,000 damages on each of three counts.

Tennessean Commits Suicide Under Train

NASHVILLE, Tenn., April 5. (P)—Stooping down and placing his head upon the rail as an L. & N. train approached, W. H. Johnson, 50, of Old Hickory, committed suicide near here this afternoon.

Relative said the man had attempted to end his life several times. James Vernon, of Louisville, engineer of the train, in his report to railroad officials, said the man was walking beside the tracks, and when the engine reached a point about a car length from him, he stepped to the tracks and laid his head on the rail. W. D. Smith, engineer of a second engine of the train, verified Vernon's report of the suicide.

Cotton Not Over-Produced In South, Talmadge Says

Price of Staple Should Be Fixed in Georgia, Farm Head Declares in Market Bulletin.

Eugene Talmadge, state commissioner of agriculture, writing in this week's issue of the Georgia Market Bulletin, states that there is no over-production of cotton in the south and that the price of that staple should be fixed right in Georgia.

"There is enough money in Georgia to fix the price of Georgia cotton," writes Mr. Talmadge. "This is true of every one of the cotton states of the south. There is no overproduction of cotton. For the past five years the annual world consumption has exceeded the annual world production of cotton. In this way the annual carry-over has been reduced."

"Yet we hear such slush as 'slack up in planting cotton.' At the same time jute, a cotton substitute, is allowed to come into this country duty free. Also, cotton of less than one and one-eighth-inch staple is allowed to come into this country duty free."

"Of course I am a firm advocate of the fact that a farmer cannot afford to haul his feed ten miles, if it is given him. You have got to grow your feed crops, but it is everlastingly true that cotton is the money crop of the south."

Mr. Talmadge asks the question, "Who fixes the price of cotton and where is it fixed?" "It is bought and sold in the New York Cotton Exchange market," he says. "The price is fixed by 'so many points off of May,' or 'off of December,' to 'off of October.' This off means of the New York Cotton Exchange quotations or what cotton ought to be worth those months."

"Do they grow cotton in New York? Have they any great cotton warehouses and cotton mills in New York city? You will find that there are a great many more in Griffin, Ga., or in almost all towns of similar size in North Carolina and South Carolina than there are in New York city."

"New York is interested in the exportation of cotton. New York has foreign customers who buy cotton. They loan them the money to buy it with their collateral is manufactured cloth and thread. Most of the brokers that handle the manufactured cotton articles are in New York. They control the price of cotton. They do not allow supply and demand to assert itself."

"Supply and demand unhampered does regulate the price of any commodity, but where you have millions of people selling cotton on an exchange market where they haven't one bale of actual visible cotton, the law of supply and demand can be overturned."

"If enough people bet their money that any article is going down they force it down if they haven't any callers on the other side. This is exactly what selling cotton on the future market is, when you haven't any cotton to sell."

Mr. Talmadge concludes with the statement that he is finally convinced that the price of cotton is a matter for the banks of the south to interest themselves in, and says he would like to hear from commissioners of agriculture in other cotton states on the subject.

SENATE TO STUDDY PROHIBITION TODAY

Leaders Are Hopeful of Passage of Transfer Bill.

BY FRANCIS M. STEPHENSON, Associated Press Staff Writer, WASHINGTON, April 6.—(AP)—Prohibition gets its long-awaited consideration in the dry-dominated senate this week and leaders were hopeful today of getting action on the house measure to transfer enforcement from the treasury to the justice department. Attorney General Mitchell goes before the senate judiciary committee tomorrow to give his views on the Norris resolution providing for a senate inquiry of dry enforcement. Committee members were ready to ask Mr. Mitchell about his plans for enforcement if the transfer bill becomes law.

Ready to give prohibition the right of way in the senate, Senator Watson, of Indiana, the republican leader, was today trying to arrange to get the transfer bill out of the judiciary committee. However, Chairman Norris of the committee said the subcommittee considering the bill had not made a report and he was not hopeful of committee action on it tomorrow.

Senator Brookhart, of Iowa, a republican dry, is prepared to open the wet and dry discussion in the senate with a reply to the speech by Senator Tydings, of Maryland, democrat wet, who cited a mass of statistics in his contention that the prohibition law has failed to prohibit.

Senate drys also have given notice that they are willing to vote on the resolution of Senator Blaine, republican, Wisconsin, proposing repeal of the eighteenth amendment. But the Wisconsin senator's resolution is still before the judiciary committee, too. He has said, however, he will bring it up in the senate. No chance whatever is conceded that the resolution will pass.

Preliminary to the appearance of Attorney General Mitchell, the department of justice made public today a table comparing the number of prohibition prosecutions in the federal courts during the last six months of 1929 with those during the same period in 1928. It showed a decrease.

In the last six months of 1929 when the Jones law providing increased penalties was in full effect, 20,811 prohibition cases were instituted by the government, compared with 27,575 for the same period in 1928 before the Jones law became operative.

Despite the decrease in prosecutions, there was a slight increase in convictions and pleas of guilty. The total of fines was $3,379,448 for the 1929 period compared with $3,222,746 for 1928. The convictions and pleas of guilty for 1929 were 24,213 against 23,683 for 1928.

The department offered no comment on the statistics which showed little difference in the amount of fines under the operation of the Jones law. The southern and northern districts of New York showed the greatest decrease.

Trial of Railway Mail Clerk, for Killing On Atlanta Bound Train, Opens Wednesday

When the trial of W. W. Fowler, College Park railway mail clerk, charged with killing Paul Hutchinson, Southern railway flagman, of Atlanta, is called in Griffin April 9 the prosecution will introduce the above photograph which, according to the only eye witness to the shooting, shows how Fowler crawled through an opening in the partition separating the mail room and baggage room and the position from which he fired. J. J. Krigger, baggage master, who saw the shooting, is in the foreground at the right. Jim Edens, a son-in-law of the slain man, is on the floor and Will Hutchinson, a brother, is at the left in the positions, respectively of Fowler and Hutchinson when the shooting took place.

More than 65 witnesses, about equally divided between prosecution and defense, have been subpoenaed for the trial of W. W. Fowler, railway mail clerk of College Park, charged with killing Paul Hutchinson, Southern Railway flagman, who lived at 881 Euclid avenue, N. E., on February 20, last. The trial will begin before Judge W. E. H. Sears, Jr., in Spalding superior court at Griffin next Wednesday.

Branch and Howard, Atlanta attorneys, and C. C. Byars, of Griffin, will represent Fowler and Len Guillebeau, also of Atlanta, will assist Solicitor General E. M. Owen, of the Spalding district, in prosecution of the case.

A feud which had existed for more than a year, according to statements made at the time of the shooting, and which flared up afresh when a Southern railway passenger train on which both men were "running" was waiting at Griffin, is said to have led to the killing. Fowler claims that he shot in self-defense.

Atlanta Gold Star Mothers To Be Theater Guests Today

Every gold star mother in Greater Atlanta will be the guest of The Constitution and Keith's Will Be Joint Hosts today at the showing of "Seven Days Leave" at the Georgia theater, starting today at the showing of "Seven Days Leave" that star's latest Paramount production from the sensational stage play by James M. Barrie, "The Old Lady Shows Her Medals."

Gary Cooper last week sent telegrams of invitation to the picture to gold star mothers of Atlanta, from a list supplied him by the Service Star League of Fulton county. Two mothers called Sunday to say they had not received the telegram since their names were not on the list.

The Constitution invites every gold star mother, regardless of whether she received a wire or not. Those who have the telegrams will be admitted to the best reserved seat section of the theater by presenting the wires, which will be returned to be kept by the gold star mothers.

Those few who did not receive telegrams from Gary Cooper will be admitted just as others, merely by stating that they are gold star mothers.

All mothers of members of the American Legion also will be guests of The Constitution by the same procedure, provided's names are accompanied by their legionnaire sons.

The Constitution's invitation is effective at any performance of the picture during the entire week.

"Seven Days Leave" is not a war picture in the accepted sense, since there is but one very brief scene of conflict. It is a strangely beautiful and mother love, written with all of the beauty and whimsy of which the noted Sir James Barrie, author of "Peter Pan" is capable.

The Constitution believes that not only will the picture prove of vast interest to gold star mothers and mothers of legionnaires, but that every mother will want to see it.

The first performance is at 1 o'clock today.

George, Clerkship Aspirant, Arraigns Simmons, Faction

Opponent Trying To Raise "Smoke Screen," Is Charge; Election To Be Held Wednesday.

While opposing camps of principal contenders in the election to name clerk of Fulton county superior court continued to debate the eligibility of J. W. Simmons, one of the candidates, James M. George, who is holding the post under appointment of Fulton county commission and who is the other leading figure in the contest for the post, Sunday night issued a statement in which he arraigned the Simmons faction.

The battle of ballots to decide who shall hold the unexpired term of the late Thomas Miller will begin Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock, scattered throughout the county, with about 50,000 voters eligible to cast ballots in the election.

Bob Church, attorney, and R. J. Davidson, sales representative, are the other two opponents in the four-cornered contest.

Severely scoring what he termed an ineffectual effort of the Simmons camp to establish a "smoke screen" to cloud the real issue, Mr. George Sunday night attacked the opposition tactics as "a movement to mislead voters by the temporary use of false promises to the members of his own chosen ticket."

"Mud-slinging" Charge

"The Simmons headquarters has issued statements purporting to deny alleged mud-slinging in this campaign," Mr. George said.

"This itself is a deliberate effort on the part of Mr. Simmons to deceive the voters again."

"No mud-slinging has been engaged in unless Mr. Simmons regards publication of the records of the tax office, those records which referred to his own dereliction of duty, as such."

"It is mud-slinging, according to Mr. Simmons, to tell the 50,000 honest and fair voters of Fulton county that he has not qualified even to vote in the election Wednesday much less to be elected to a public office."

Mr. Simmons, to tell the 50,000 honest and fair voters of Fulton county that he has not qualified even to vote in the election Wednesday much less to be elected to a public office."

"Voters of Atlanta will not be misled by the cry of the opposition that there is mud-slinging in publication of the certified record of the tax office, and in attacking a candidate's failure to properly qualify for an election. That is the only point at issue."

New York Comedy Treat at Erlanger

Tonight, for the first time on any stage outside of New York, the Erlanger Theater Players will offer for the delectation of Atlanta theatergoers "Nancy's Private Affair," which is conceded by New York critics to be the most enjoyable and cleverest comedy of the current season.

Opening last fall at the Vanderbilt theater, with Minna Gombell in the title role, this comedy of domestic troubles and their solution by a remarkable wife is still drawing capacity audiences in New York. It is a foregone conclusion that it will do the same thing next week at the Erlanger, with Helen Lewis in the role made famous by Miss Gombell and with the balance of the magnificent local production company and Director Harry McKee striving to surpass the original production, if possible.

The story is a clever concoction of snappy lines and amusing situations, centering around a wife who saw her husband being stolen from her by a greedy little gold-digger and who promptly set out to win him back again. Did she succeed? And how!

Man Must Remember Wife Needs Petting, Declares Dr. Taylor

The following article, exclusive for The Constitution, written by Dr. M. Sayle Taylor, philosopher and scientist, now presenting "Married Love" at the Rialto theater.

BY DR. M. SAYLE TAYLOR.

Love is unselfish, kind and tolerant, and if true love remains throughout marriage, the home will be based on these attributes.

But too many women are in love with love, and so many men are in love with sex, that many homes find the wife and the husband alike merely a means to each other to express their emotional life.

Woman lives on the emotional plane—to her love is life, while man lives on the physical plane, and puts his love in his arms.

Dr. M. Sayle Taylor, on and takes it out like he does his overcoat.

The wife wants love, the main theme of married life and wants ever to be told she is loved. The husband, less emotional and more practical, becomes forgetful of the little niceties of affection and only expresses his love when his physical nature demands an avenue of expression.

And each, in their selfishness, unable to understand the other, unwilling to go out of their way in developing the side of their own nature that will meet in its own plane the nature of the other, begins to nurse a grievance that grows as the years go on.

Wife wants admiration, flattery and love because of what she is, not for what she can give. "Society" presses his emotions only when the physical man is awakened.

He has forgotten the lover days, when he petted, caressed, flattered, and starved his wife by denying her the very things upon which as a sweet heart she built her air castles.

But his is of a different kind. Man is naturally braggadocio and as a lover he prates of his own feats of skill, his wonderful prowess, his superiority over other men, and one of the big reasons he married the woman he did was because she was a good listener, because she marveled and pretended to believe all the exaggerated tales he used to tell her of himself.

But now that he belongs to her, she no longer cares to listen, she has ceased to marvel, she has dropped her pretense of believing and in many instances is indiscreet enough to let him know that she knows he is "lying."

And when a husband who likes to be found out.

No—husbands and wives are both human, and if each will forgive in the other one-half that must be forgiven in the other half, will think in terms of the other instead of always in terms of self—if both will cultivate the very characteristics that proved so successful in the days of courtship, the average home will be far happier than it is today.

Doctors to Meet Today.

A meeting of all physicians and dentists who held suites in the burned building has been called for 9 o'clock this morning at the Academy of Medicine building at 28 Peachtree street.

Dr. W. R. Bell, of Marshall & Bell, stated Sunday night that the Medical Arts building would offer space for the temporary offices of a majority of those who were burned out as it was possible to provide for.

There were many interesting sidelights attendant upon the spectacle of the fire. While the fire was at its height, men with megaphones strolled about among the thousands who were crowded into the building and announced a midnight show at a downtown theater.

Restaurants and "hot dog" places which were in darkness behind closed doors, sprang into life and did rushing business with those who had come to witness the fire. Long before midnight all reported "sold out" and there was not a cold drink to be had closer than downtown.

Work All Night.

Firesmen from the seven companies who fought the fire remained there practically all night to keep a steady stream of water pouring on the building and to protect adjoining residences and stores.

Under the direction of Captain A. J. Holcomb, between 14 and 18 members of the police department were stationed close to the fire and at entrances to the block which early in the evening appeared to be in danger. However, no fires were held to the burning building.

New Building Planned.

Announcement of the erection of a new building to be erected strictly for physicians and dentists was made by Jesse Draper, of the Draper-Owens company, Sunday night following the burning of the Doctors' building.

Mr. Draper stated that while the exact size of the new building had not been determined it would be one of the most modern and spacious in Atlanta. It will be located at the corner of Peachtree and Crawford long streets and will front 100 feet on Peachtree, 170 feet on Crawford long and 116 on Alexander street.

The site of the proposed building, Mr. Draper said, is at present owned by Dr. Floyd McCall, who is to sell to a syndicate. The work will begin immediately.

"High Society Blues" Wins Night Crowd

With a sizable and enthusiastic audience present the first Sunday night show of the Fox theater took place at the big playhouse at Peachtree and Ponce de Leon last night when "High Society Blues" was given its southern premiere.

The stars of "High Society Blues," Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell, are the same screen sweethearts who made "Sunny Side Up," one of the most popular and talked-about pictures of the year, a success since the silver sheet became audible—and from the enthusiastic way in which the midnight audience received "High Society Blues" last night it bids fair to eclipse the tremendous attendance record made by its predecessor.

A strong cast is in support of Miss Gaynor and Farrell in "High Society Blues," including William Collier, Sr., Hilda Hopper, Joyce Campbell, Louise Fazenda and Lucien Littlefield.

The song hits of "High Society Blues" bid fair to equal the wide popularity of those of "Sunny Side Up," among them being "I'm in the Market for You," "Elephant and the Story Book."

In seeing "High Society Blues" Atlanta audience will have the distinction of being the first in the south to enjoy this movie musical romance, and among the first in the entire country. The picture was released only yesterday and is being shown in Atlanta as soon as it is in Los Angeles.

Kindly Burglar Leaves Victim His Trousers

Burglars with a becoming sense of modesty entered the home of J. B. Mathis, at 550 S. Charles avenue, early Sunday morning and after stealing his coat, vest, watch and glasses, left him his trousers.

Mr. Mathis was sleeping in a rear room with his wife, and the burglars came in a window through this room.

Famous "Hallelujah" At Grand This Week

Atlanta, if they will go to Loew's Grand theater this week. For there is to be seen "Hallelujah," King Vidor's epochal picture of negro life in the south, played by an all-colored cast and interpreting correctly, for the first time, the negro as he lives in Dixie and as he is known to southerners.

Taken in Arkansas and Mississippi, with cotton farms, negro religious events, Mississippi river wharves, river front dance halls, lumber camps and chain gangs as the varying locale, the picture treats sympathetically and kindly with the foibles and weaknesses, as well as with the many splendid racial characteristics of the negro.

Special interest attaches to the picture in Atlanta, inasmuch as the leading male performer is a former colored citizen of this metropolis. He is William Haines and he does a splendid piece of acting as the cotton hand, sawmill worker, revivalist preacher that he becomes in various stages of the story. The half dozen principal characters of the play are

Roberts & McGeeney Do Expert Printing

Among the live, progressive printing companies of Atlanta is the Roberts & McGeeney Co., 141 Mangum street. The company is exceptionally well equipped to print any large or small work that may be wanted by anyone in Atlanta or vicinity. This firm has a peculiar and effective way of soliciting and doing special work. Both Mr. Roberts and Mr. McGeeney are expert printers, having worked for other large firms here before they went into business for themselves five years ago.

As they are both printing salesmen, as well as craftsmen, Mr. Roberts is the outside salesman one day, and Mr. McGeeney is inside directing the work he had sold. The next day, Mr. McGeeney is the outside salesman and Mr. Roberts is in looking after his special orders. An efficient foreman and his force look after the ordinary printing that is usually done in a large plant.

Atlanta Envelope Company Lands Two Huge Contracts

The aggressiveness of an Atlanta manufacturer, the Atlanta Envelope Company, is responsible for "bringing home" two of the largest contracts for envelopes ever placed in the south, business which heretofore has gone from this territory to northern manufacturers.

In announcing the securing of these contracts, S. Guthman, president of the Atlanta Envelope Company, said last week that they would involve the production during the year of between 35,000,000 and 40,000,000 envelopes. "This is the first time any southern concern has secured this business," Mr. Guthman said, "and we feel that the action of the two big corporations who placed the orders is a recognition of Atlanta's increasing facilities for service as well as the particular advantages offered by our own plant and service organization."

"Business of such volume naturally stimulates keen competition," Mr. Guthman pointed out. "The equipment of the Atlanta Envelope Company for making speedy delivery was a factor. Even the paper stock to be used in making the envelopes was submitted to tests in a laboratory for durability and quality. And the fact that the Atlanta Envelope Company has been in competition with manufacturers all over the United States shows that right here at home we have unsurpassed facilities for buying the commercial envelopes we use."

The Atlanta Envelope Company's plant, on Stewart avenue, has a capacity of nearly three-quarters of a million envelopes daily. Within the past year, new equipment has been installed which makes for speedier and better manufacturing.

As a part of its equipment, the Atlanta Envelope Company maintains a commercial printing plant. It is expected that with its already large production, the addition of these two new big contracts will necessitate still further increases in plant capacity in the near future.

Chicken Raising Becomes More Profitable Than Ever

Experts say there is no industry today that offers greater profits per dollar of expenditure than poultry raising. In a few years it has jumped from infancy to one of the most important sources of income to the average farmer. The demand has constantly increased until the supply is hardly able to take care of it. Contrasted to this great demand is the unusual shortage of poultry and its products.

Fewer eggs are in cold storage than at corresponding date last year. The June, 1928, report showed a loss of 14 per cent.

Cold storage holdings of poultry at 10 principal markets showed a loss of 37 per cent; more than 15,000,000 pounds less than last season.

Hatcheries on the average produced only 60 to 70 per cent as many baby chicks in 1928 as in 1927, due to the fact that orders were held up until it was too late for the hatcheries to fill them. The 1929 report also shows losses in many cases larger than 1928 report.

As direct result the supply of young or growing stock is decidedly short.

Normal increase in population each year calls for an additional supply of 26,000,000 dozen eggs and 9,000,000 table fowls.

This is baby chick time and the hatcheries around Atlanta are all working up to near their full capacity, and the thousands of these little "biddies" that are sent from here every week go all points of the country. One firm, the Blue Ribbon Hatchery, sent them as far as Connecticut, Missouri, Oklahoma, Texas and distant Florida points.

The owner of the hatchery, which is one of the oldest and largest in Georgia, is J. I. Hosford, who began hatching baby chicks to sell 24 years ago. Mr. Hosford is one of the country's foremost advocates for purebred chicks and he says, "Heavy egg-producing pullets don't just happen, nor can you take any egg and hatch it expecting to hatch a profitable baby chick. Baby chicks are like anything else you buy, the best quality and breeds cost a little more but they earn the most profit and pay the largest dividends on the investment."

"There are plenty of people who get $4 profit per hen each year, and if some can do that, well there are others who can also do as well, if not better. If a person has say 400 hens then a wee, tidy sum can be realized without a big money outlay for chicks or equipment. One gets a certain sense of enjoyment in tending a nice flock of live chickens, as well as having the best of meat for one's table at all times."

The Blue Ribbon hatchery is located at 221 Forsyth street, S. W.

Cascade Terrace Inn Proves Popular Place

The Cascade Terrace Outside inn, on Cascade road, a mile or so beyond the city line, is a favorite place with many people who like chicken dinners and a splendid floor to dance on. Mr. and Mrs. Ferris, the proprietors, have in their Outside inn one of the most popular places for private and public parties around Atlanta, and they are famous for their chicken dinners and old southern style of cooking.

The Cascade Terrace Outside inn consists of a group of buildings on a high elevation overlooking Cascade road, just beyond Cascade heights, and is suitable for weddings, club, fraternal, civic, church or social parties. The dance floor is extra good and will accommodate a large party. Mr. and Mrs. Ferris, who are well connected with the best families in this part of the state, are courtly of manner themselves, and lend an air of southern hospitality to the Outside inn that makes everybody feel at home.

The Cascade Outside inn is a favorite place for business and office managers to entertain visiting officials and friends. It is surrounded by an atmosphere of refinement and is regarded as a place where all members of a family can go and have a good time.

Lee Baking Company Outstanding Success

The Lee Baking Company under the guidance of A. R. Lee, president, is making one of the outstanding successes in Atlanta. The fact is not surprising to those who have eaten Colonial products. Colonial breads and cakes are made with plenty of milk, fresh butter and the finest materials obtainable—resulting in the pleasing flavor that has distinguished Colonial products.

Colonial whole-wheat bread is prescribed by leading physicians for special diets because of its extra high protein value and because of its delicious flavor. The flour that goes into Colonial whole-wheat bread is milled by a special process from whole-wheat to which nothing has been added and from which nothing has been taken.

The Lee Baking Company makes many delicious breads and cakes and invites you to visit the bakery and see and know more fully how they are made. Colonial bread is made of quality material and baked by wonderfully efficient machinery that works automatically.

Best Made Doughnuts On Many Lunch Stands

Many lunch stands, soda fountains, and grocery stores are now displaying extra large, golden brown doughnuts, products of the Best Made Doughnut Company, 485 Edgewood avenue, that look temptingly good. At present the company is making

1,200 dozen of these doughnuts every night, and fast delivery cars are placing them on customers' counters, still warm in many cases.

The Best Made Doughnut Company makes nothing but doughnuts, but makes them good. By a new process they are not overladen with fat or grease. This method makes them tasty and palatable, and as they are large, the consumer receives a generous value.

The success the company had in Atlanta, its first three months, encouraged the management to enlarge the sales territory and now every second day a fast car leaves here for Covington, Griffin, LaGrange, Cedar-town, Rome, Gainesville, Athens and intermediate towns, enabling the residents of those cities to get these big doughnuts, as well as those living near the plant.

As one or two of these Best Made doughnuts will make a small meal in themselves, why not try them the next time you go to your favorite lunch stand or soda fountain? For home use, they can be bought in most all grocery stores.

KIDNAP Section of Emanuel County Delegate To Be Protested

SWAINSBORO, Ga., April 6.—(AP) A protest of the selection of G. F. Flanders as delegate to the state convention of the republican party in Georgia will be filed by members of the white organization in Emanuel county, Sam Evans, who was elected chairman of the faction opposing Flanders, said here today.

According to Evans, Flanders called a meeting of the county party which was held in the office of Justice of the Peace Howard Roberts

Saturday, and white members of the party were excluded. Evans charged that Flanders packed Roberts' office with the negro members of the party and that the white members of the party were subsequently elected delegates to the state convention.

B. L. Wade Dairy Farm Located on Ideal Tract

On a large, well-drained rolling tract of land near Decatur is the B. L. Wade dairy farm, where 72 cows graze on pastures that are considered ideal for raising cattle and producing good milk.

This big dairy is one that passes high marks in sanitary health inspection and the equipment, care of the cows and care and delivery of the milk are all that the most particular housewife could ask.

Mr. Wade has been in the dairy business over 15 years and is a leader in the Georgia Pure Milk League. He emphasizes the fact that every mother who has the care and love of her babies or family at heart should, by all means, pay occasional visits to the dairy or plant that furnishes milk for her table.

"We extend an invitation to every customer or prospective customer, official or anyone else to come out and see our cows and dairy at any time," he says.

Mr. Wade in speaking about natural milk says, "As it is produced at this dairy it contains all the vitamins necessary to the perfect growth and development of the child and it maintains the health and vigor of the adult."

The B. L. Wade dairy does not try at this time to deliver milk to all parts of Atlanta, but confines its deliveries to the North Side, most of the customers being in Decatur, Druid Hills and Inman Park.

The territory covered by The Atlanta Constitution has been divided into two divisions and these divisions have been divided into districts of five each. The $3,120 Pierce-Arrow Sedan and $1,000 in gold is the First Grand Prize and will be awarded to the candidate, regardless of division or districts, having the greatest number of credits at the close of the campaign May 31. The $2,835 Franklin Sedan and $500 in gold is the Second Grand Prize and will be awarded to the candidate, regardless of division or district, having the second highest number of credits at the close of the campaign. There are three automobiles for each division to be awarded to the three highest candidates in credit standing in each of the two divisions, after the two grand prize winners have been eliminated. There is an automobile and two Atwater Kent Radios for each of the ten districts, to be awarded to the three highest candidates in credit standing, after the two grand prize winners and six division prize winners of cars have been eliminated.

Cash commissions will be paid to all active non-prize winners. If you are an active candidate and do not win one of the regular awards you will be paid in cash at the rate of 95 cents for each verified and accepted new yearly prepaid carrier subscription and 52 cents for each verified and accepted new yearly contract subscription you turn in. The cash commissions provide that all active non-prize winners will be paid 10 per cent on all new prepaid subscriptions and 5 per cent on all new contract subscriptions turned in by them.

KIDNAPED GIRL OF 6 RESTORED TO PARENTS

No Demands for Money
Made on Parents; Child Beaten.

DETROIT, Mich., April 6.—(P)—Mary Subock, 6-year-old girl, who was found late last night after being held by kidnapers since Tuesday, was taken to the Detroit juvenile detention home today to guard against reprisals by the kidnapers. Police said they feared the little girl might be carried off again.

Meanwhile, detectives were searching for a man known only as "Joe" who, Mary said, beat her while she was being held captive. They also were looking for the "big woman" to whose house Mary said she was taken.

Mary is a daughter of a factory worker of Dearborn, Detroit suburb. The Subock family is not wealthy, but Mary's mother is heir to $1,700 and police advanced the theory that the kidnapers hoped to collect a ransom. No demands for money had been made on the Subock family, so far as police know.

Detectives and the child's parents at about the same time last night received information from an unknown source that Mary would be found on a specified corner and found the girl walking on the street with John Reno, 17. Reno said he was taking Mary to the man known to him only as "Joe." Reno is held on a fugitive warrant.

Mary said she was taken to two houses, one of which was cold. She was fed only bread and butter and given coffee to drink. She said "Joe" whipped her for complaining. Her story to police checked in nearly all details with that told by her 9-year-old brother, Joseph, who said a man in a small sedan took her away Tuesday afternoon.

The Coolidges' 'Modest Place' Has Wine Cellar

BY ALBERT R. MAINES,
United News Staff Correspondent.
NORTHAMPTON, Mass., April 6. Calvin Coolidge's new 16-room mansion, for which he will desert his homey little apartment on Massachusetts street this summer, is equipped with an elegant wine cellar, a splendid drive-it-yourself elevator and a billiard room.

The newly purchased estate which is located in a secluded section of the city was subjected to the critical scrutiny of a party of reporters and the consensus of opinion seemed to be that the ex-president and his popular wife are to be complimented on their taste.

"The Beeches," as the estate is known, is about two miles from the present Coolidge home. It is only about a mile, however, from the ex-president's law offices on Main street. The Coolidges have been paying something like $32 a month rental on their Massachusetts street place. When The Beeches was put on the market some time ago it is understood that a price of $80,000 was asked. Mrs. Morris L. Comer, the former owner, who conducted the reporters through the house said that a builder recently informed her that the estate could not be reproduced for less than $150,000.

The house is a gray-shingled building, set back some distance from the street. An attractive drive, flanked on either side by beeches, leads to the door.

The interior is finished almost entirely in red birch. On the first floor is an immense library, with shelves reaching to the ceiling, capable of holding over 5,000 volumes. A large bay window offers a pleasing vista, looking out on an unbroken sweep of field and trees. The library is equipped with a large fireplace and from the ceiling hangs a light dome which came from the oldest city in the world, Damascus.

The living room on the first floor is finished in an ivory shade. Several paintings of old whaling vessels are on the living room walls.

The dining room has canvas-covered walls with linen ceiling and English type windows.

The second floor is given over to bedrooms. The billiard room is on the third floor, together with servant quarters.

The elevator in the house descends to the basement, where the spacious wine cellar is located. Quarters for a chauffeur also are provided in the basement.

Mrs. Comer said that she expects to vacate the house about May 1 and that the Coolidges probably will take possession on June 1.

Florida U. President Speaks at Tuskegee

TUSKEGEE, Ala., April 6.—(P)—Dr. John J. Tigert, president of the University of Florida, in a Founders' Day address at Tuskegee institute here today, appraised the contribution of Booker T. Washington to the educational philosophy of his time and to the industrial advancement of his people.

"If our people could have had a Washington to lead us out of the educational wilderness a generation ago, the south, instead of being the poorest section of the United States in per capita wealth, would have long since been the most prosperous section of the nation," Dr. Tigert said.

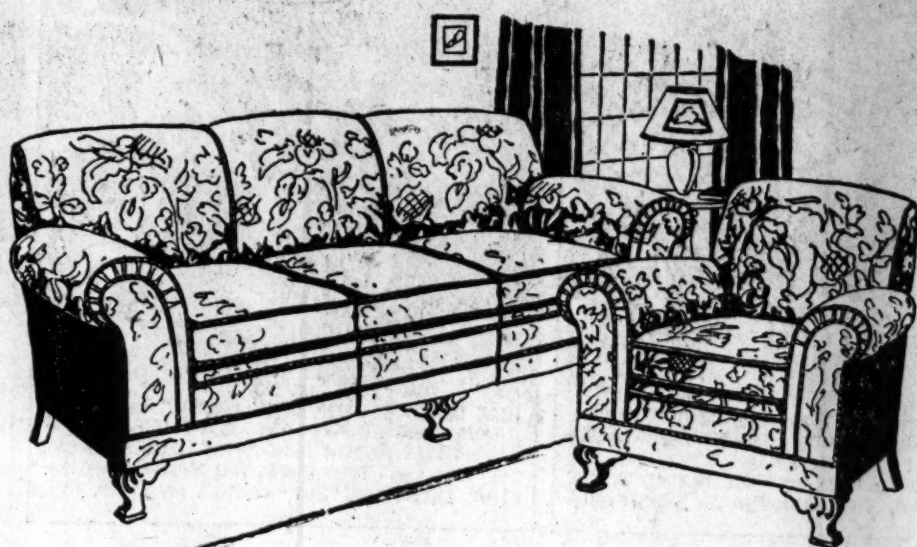

Slavery, he stated, developed an aversion to manual labor on the part of white people in the south. "We are just beginning to overcome the handicaps which have accrued from this unfortunate sentiment and the south has waited 50 years to get started on a real program of industrial development."

The greatest lesson we learn from the life of Washington is that of tolerance, Dr. Tigert said. "To my mind, Washington never said a greater thing than this: 'No man can drag me down so low as to hate him.' In all his acts, throughout his many speeches and in his writings we find him paying tribute to the white man of the south."

Woman May Oppose Governor Ritchie

BETHESDA, Md., April 6.—(UN)—Friends of Mrs. Jesse W. Nicholson, Chevy Chase, Md., prominent prohibition worker, proposed her today as the democratic candidate for governor opposing Governor Ritchie, who is so far unopposed for re-nomination for his fourth term.

They claimed in a statement that a resolution favoring her, adopted at a meeting of the Montgomery County Democratic Law Enforcement Club, was "the first time a woman has received the unanimous vote of any political organization for governor of Maryland."

Centennial of Mormonism Is Lavishly Celebrated

Thousand Actors and Singers Give Pageant; Church Head Delivers Message to Members.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, April 6.—(AP)—The centennial of the establishment of Mormonism was celebrated here today by thousands of persons, members of the church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints. They came from many parts of the world.

Opening the day's activities, Heber J. Grant, president of the church, delivered a message from the first presidency of the church asking the world to judge the body by the fruits of its first 100 years. Tonight the initial presentation of the pageant, "The Message of the Ages," was given by a cast of 1,000 actors, singers, and musicians.

Sketching the history of the Latter Day Saints church from its organization by Joseph Smith 100 years ago today, following what were declared to be divine revelations, President Grant pictured its present status in scriptural allusions.

"The mountain of the Lord's House has been established in the tops of the mountains and people from all nations have flown into it," he said. "Through the blessing of the Lord upon their labors, the desert has been subdued and made to blossom as the rose. Solitary places have been made glad because of them. Cities have been established, springs of water have broken out which have given life to the thirsty land, music and the voices of children are heard in the streets where desolation and silence had reigned for ages."

The message, translated into many tongues, was read at the same hour to congregations of Latter Day Saints in many other parts of the world.

The conference session will continue until Wednesday. The pageant will be presented each night for two weeks.

In the pageant, the parts of many Mormon pioneers in the migration across the plains to Utah were depicted by their grandsons and many of the properties in the scene representing the migration the identical ones used by the pioneers.

DESCENDANT OF SMITH.

LEADS CELEBRATION. INDEPENDENCE, Mo., April 6.—(AP)—Communicants of the reorganized church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints celebrated the centennial of Mormonism and consecrated their large new auditorium here today.

A lineal descendant of Joseph Smith, who called a small group into his religion in Fayette, N. Y., April 6, 1830, summoned to communion more than 7,000 of the international church membership a century later.

At the bidding of Dr. Frederick M. Smith, grandson of Joseph Smith, delegates to the centennial conference filed into the new temple to receive communion at two services directed by 200 ministers.

Another descendant of the founder, Dr. Elbert A. Smith, officiated at evening vesper services.

The million dollar auditorium, upon an eminence visible for miles around, is 250x270 feet on its major axes and its dome towers 114 feet from the street level. Its interior height from the main floor is 67 feet. The building, seating 7,000, has no pillars and no steps, ramps being used for elevation.

Across the street, the Church of Christ celebrated the 100th anniversary on its temple lot, with similar communion observance. This group has no titular head. Two years ago its members undertook construction of a temple to cost between $600,000 to $700,000 and excavation has been mostly completed. The building problem will be considered at its centennial conference this week.

Two of those injured, Joseph Ayek and Paul Jedynak, were taken to a hospital in serious condition. The outbreak was a prelude to a demonstration organized by members of the Ukrainian anti-communist organization of America, which was to be featured by a parade starting from the church.

BURGESS CHILDREN'S STORIES

MR. AND MRS. QUACK REMAIN.

By Thornton W. Burgess.

In other folks' affairs don't pry. It never pays, so never try. —Mrs. Quack.

Peter Rabbit managed to get around to the Smiling Pool at least once every night. Usually he got there just as the Black Shadows came creeping out from the Purple Hills across the Green Meadows. Mr. and Mrs. Quack the Mallard Ducks and their friends, who had stopped off at the Smiling Pool on their way North, had been there a week now. You see, they were getting good living for Farmer Brown's Boy was putting out corn for them. Every day he brought down corn. There is nothing that the Quacks like better than nice, plump, yellow corn.

One evening Peter noticed that there was a great deal of uneasiness among the Quacks. They swam about this way and that way for no particular reason. They continually stretched their heads up and now and then raised themselves from the water and flapped their wings. The only ones who did not appear uneasy were Mr. and Mrs. Quack. They seemed to be keeping somewhat by themselves. Finally they swam over near where Peter was sitting.

"What is the matter with those Ducks?" Peter inquired.

Mrs. Quack pretended to be surprised. "I don't see anything the matter with those Ducks," said she. "They look all right to me. In fact, they look better than they did when they arrived. They have been having good living ever since they reached the Smiling Pool."

"Are they afraid of something?" demanded Peter.

"If they are, I don't know it," said Mrs. Quack. "I don't see anything around here to be afraid of."

"Then what makes all those Ducks so uneasy?" Peter inquired. "You certainly can't say that they're not uneasy."

"Oh," replied Mrs. Quack, "they are simply getting anxious to move along."

"You mean to move 'on North'?" asked Peter.

Mrs. Quack nodded. "That's it," said she. "They've been talking about it for the last day or two. They like it here and, of course, they like this nice corn we have been having, but they are anxious to get up to their nesting grounds."

"Aren't you just as anxious as they are?" inquired Peter.

Mrs. Quack looked at Mr. Quack and they shook their heads. "No," said she. "No, we are not particularly anxious to start along. In fact, Mr. Quack and I have talked it over and we have decided to stay a while longer. You see, we have made that journey so many times that sometimes we rather dread it. There are constant dangers all the way. Sometimes

"Oh," replied Mrs. Quack, "they are simply getting anxious to move along."

It isn't easy to get enough to eat. So we have decided to stay here a while."

"Do you mean that you are going to stay and nest here?" inquired Peter.

"I didn't say that, did I?" retorted Mrs. Quack. "I said we had decided to stay a while. What we may do later I don't know."

"Well," replied Peter, "I think that shows good sense. Anyone who knows when he is well off shows good sense."

"Then what are you doing over here?" inquired Mrs. Quack slyly. "It isn't nearly as safe over here as it is in the dear Old Briar-patch."

Peter pretended not to hear this. (Copyright, 1936, by The Constitution.)

The next story: "Peter's Great Disappointment."

LAFAYETTE, La., April 6.—(P)— crushed to death beneath the wheels of Southern Pacific passenger train No. 101.

A playmate, Joseph Peschier, said Viator was talking to the others when they heard the screeching whistle of the approaching train, and in his excitement to escape, he stumbled. The train was halted by Engineer J. P. Walters, who was not held to blame, Coroner M. M. Mouton pronouncing the accident unavoidable.

Twenty-third Installment.

Madame Czerna shuddered and drew her wrap more closely about her shoulders. Through the open window came the wild chorus of the wolfhounds, reining madly from point to point of the grounds. The house resounded with hysterical voices and hurrying footsteps. Her door alone remained closed and locked.

She bent over the tiny, exquisite instrument continued in a miniature case.

"H. Q." came over in Morse. "Head Centre. Make your report quickly."

"Zone 2 A," she signaled back. Her fingers were very unsteady. "Unable to move Stop Suspected Stop Shots fired Roscoe's room Stop No other information Await orders Report ends."

"Conceal badge," came a message in reply. "Be on guard Stop Conceal instrument Stop Report . . ."

The head of a hatchet crashed through the pane. A hand reached down and turned the key! The door was thrown open—and Ned Regan came in!

Madame Czerna laid up. "Thought so!" Regan growled. "Thought so!" I heard the Morse, my dear!"

He came forward, he said gruffly, "or whatever your real name is, you're under arrest for complicity in the attempted murder of Commander Drake Roscoe."

The busy ticking had ceased. Echoing weirdly over the night waters of the sound came the dense throb of an airplane propeller.

Madame Czerna, her beautiful face deathly pale, sank back into the chair from which she had arisen.

"I am not thinking of myself," said the woman, passionately. "My danger is great enough, but yours is greater. Please do as I ask."

Dawn was not far off, but the night was at its blackest. In that bleak hotel apartment the speaker stood, back to the shaded window, her attitude almost defiant. Slenderly beautiful in a scanty dress, partly concealed by a fur wrap, she presented an irresistibly appealing figure to the man who faced her. But her too brilliant eyes were dark, and pathetic little lines showed at the corners of her mouth.

Stopford was a badly fitting overcoat, obviously someone else's, over his dinner kit. His face was mask-like in its immobility. But one who had known him very well would have said that he was retaining his composure by a tense effort of will.

"Forget my danger," he said. "I am a gentleman at large, as the Line has dispensed with my services. That was my biggest danger—and it's happened."

"There are worse dangers," said Madame Czerna. "I have seen you have never met in your life, that few know of. I tell you again you must let me go. What you suggest is impossible. Already they will be here. Turn the light out. I want to look along the road."

"I agree to that," said Stopford. He touched the switch and the room was plunged into darkness. As the shade was drawn aside, he could see his companion, a vague silhouette against the window. Her attitude was fearful, almost crouching, as she stared along the deserted country road. The building was utterly silent; the countryside was silent. At some spot not very remote the unbroken song of the sea proclaimed itself, for this quaint old room overlooked Hudson sound. Following a few moments of stillness:

"There is a car with all its lights out," Madame Czerna whispered. "Just at the bend beyond the tall trees. I tell you it is impossible. They will raid this place and they are desperate."

"But I'm not 'em no good turn," Stopford whispered back in the darkness. "You were pinched by the cops and I got you away. Shall I turn the light up?"

"No," the word was spoken as an entreaty. "They're clever—they would realize what it meant."

"Look here," said Stopford. "I've taken a lot of chances and doubled on my best pal to get you out of a nasty corner. If you think I'm going to throw up the sponge now, you're makin' a bloomer. I've done a silly thing, I suppose—but it was the only way open. I couldn't see you pinched for attempt to murder Drake Roscoe. I wanted you free first. Explanations can come later."

"Yet I was concerned in attempting to murder Drake Roscoe. . . . It was a dramatic whisper in the darkness, its drama intensified by the accent of the speaker.

"What?"

"I have said it. It is true."

"You mean that you are . . . ?"

Stopford's voice failed him. "I mean that I am a criminal. Yes. All that Commander Roscoe has suspected of me—all that you must have suspected also—has been true. I belong to the organization called the Zones. I am part of the machine controlled by the man who dreams he can become Emperor of America."

"God heavens!"

"Please," Madame Czerna spoke urgently as Stopford moved. "Don't turn the light up. It would be dangerous. And, besides—I don't want you to see me."

"Very compromising," Stopford murmured.

"Compromising!" Madame Czerna laughed mirthlessly. "I am going to tell you a lot of things you want to know. I am going to uncover a lot of mysteries. You can make what use you like of what I tell you. Then, you must let me go."

"I don't care," she spoke urgently, with intense but restrained emotion. "Tonight I have made up my mind to finish with it all. Listen closely, because perhaps I shall never be able to tell you again what I am going to tell you now. There is great conspiracy here, in America. It is secret. It is what we call the Zones. I only know a small part of it—but what I know I am going to tell you."

She paused, and Stopford detected the fact that she was listening intently. The night remained silent, and presently she went on:

"The whole of New York city is mapped out, you understand. There are divisions—I do not know how many. But in each division there are three zones. In each zone are three sectors. And in each sector are four groups. There is a man—if he is a man—called Head Centre. He controls all the zones. I think, but I do not know, that there are similar zones in all the great cities of the United States. They may have with one another—I cannot say. But the man we call Head Centre controls them all. The divisions are in charge of officials called zone officers. Under these zone officers are three sector captains; and under each sector captain are four group masters. The dramatic voice ceased.

"Yes," said Stopford—"please go on."

"I was listening again," Madame Czerna replied. "There are members of the zones everywhere—perhaps even in this room house."

"But the silence was complete, and presently she continued:

"I am a zone officer."

"What?" Stopford exclaimed. "You are a zone officer?"

"Yes, I. You are alone in this building, which is surrounded, with an agent of the most dangerous criminal group the world has ever known: I have three sector captains at my command; 12 group masters, and 50 or 60 utterly desperate gunmen. Are you afraid?"

"Not a bit," Stopford returned. "I'm interested, more than a spot horrified, but entirely sympathetic. I'm waiting for reasons."

"I shall tell you those reasons," Madame Czerna replied, "presently. First I want to assure you of something. I have never to my knowledge assisted in any crime against life—until tonight. Lately I have found out that I was expected to do so—that I was expected to obey the orders of Head Centre. Tonight I was part of a plot to bring about the death of Drake Roscoe. They were right to arrest me. And so for this reason I am finished. Whatever the consequence, I am going to tell you all I know. Then you must let me go. You will let me go. Because you will never want to see me again."

By Roy White.

With three victories and no defeats on its 1930 record, Tech High will meet Decatur and Commercial High this week in the fifth and sixth rounds of the prep baseball league.

One of the features on the Tuesday afternoon schedule will be the Decatur and Tech High game at Piedmont Park. Another will be on the Marist diamond when Boys' High and Marist meet.

Boys' High and Marist are tied for third place in the league standing with two victories and one defeat each. Coach Doyal will send Boots McCalley, his best right-hander, against Marist, while Coach Dean will likely send Moe Kunsberg to the firing line.

G. M. A. and University school should put up a good battle at College Park. The Cadets have played only one game and several games have been won by timely hitting, but on an average the hitting is far below par. The fielding has been spotty in almost every game.

It will be a banner year for the hurlers, and already Norton, Fulton hurler and first baseman, has come to the rescue on the mound with two good games. He worked six innings as a relief hurler for Wray and struck out 14 batters. He came back strong Friday afternoon and struck out 16 of the U. S. B. batters.

WEEK'S GAMES, TUESDAY SCHEDULE.

U. S. B. at G. M. A.
Commercial at Fulton.

FRIDAY'S SCHEDULE.

Colored Fighters Battle Tonight

Battling Pee Gee, of Jacksonville, and Cowboy Kid, Atlanta colored slugger, will meet in the feature 10-round match on a card at Sunset Park tonight.

The show is being staged by Blind Kid Davis, the former colored fighter and veteran of over 100 fights, who recently lost his eyesight from ring injuries.

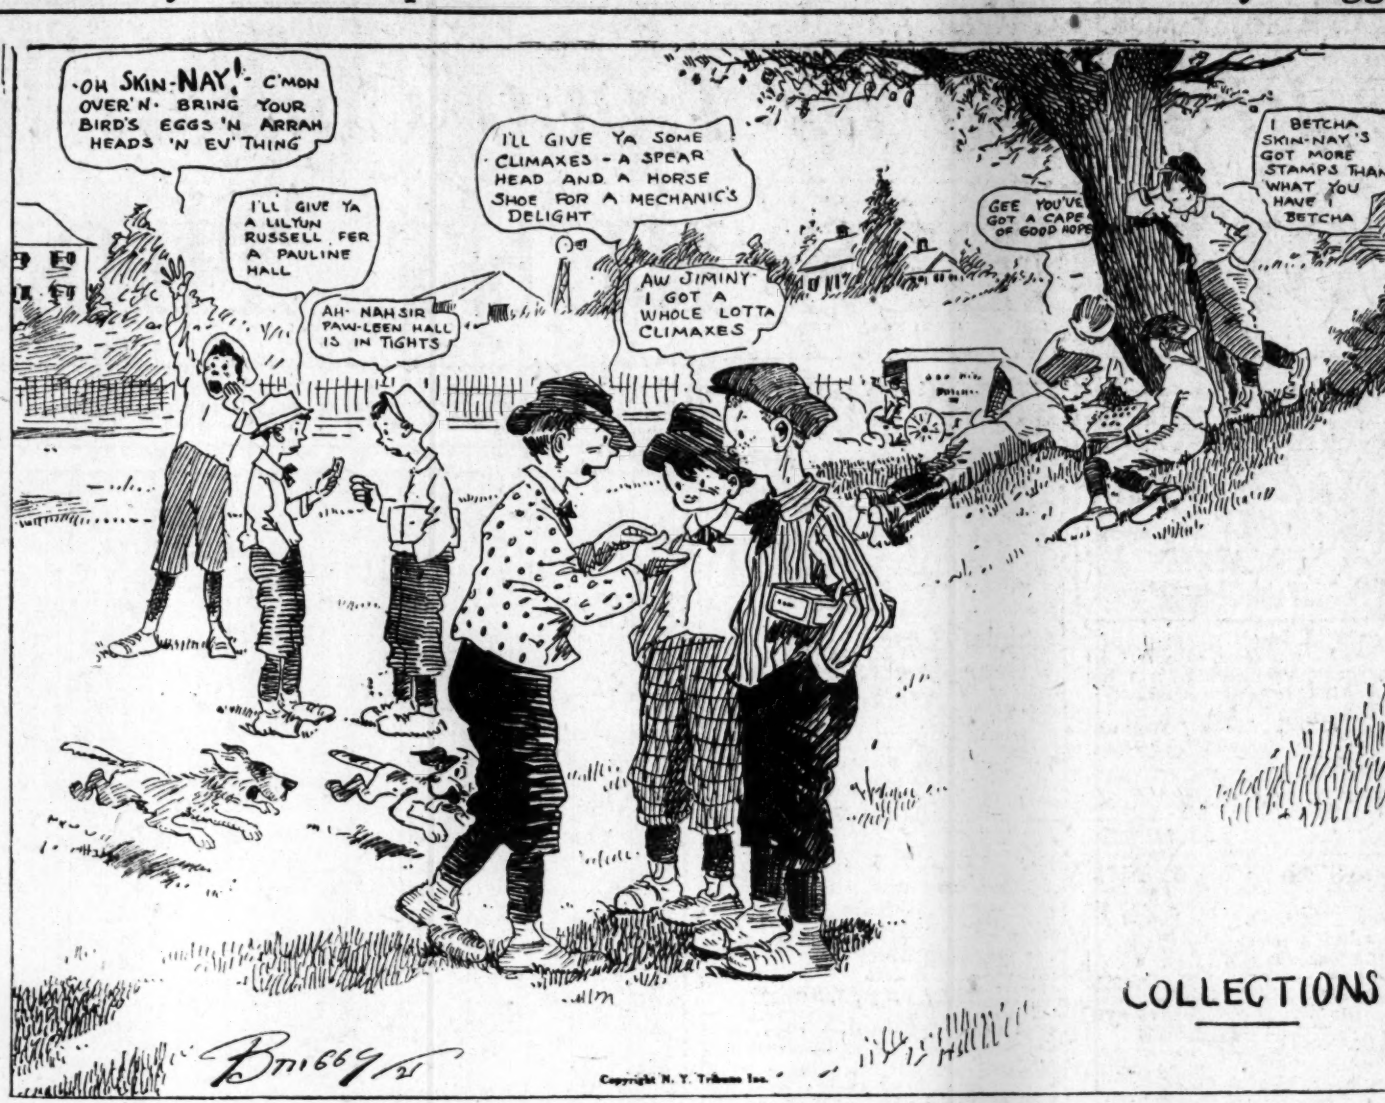

In addition to the main event, Lou Hartford and Battling Cyclone will go eight rounds, James Stafford and Battling Groundhog will step six rounds. A four-round curtain raiser and a battle royal complete the card.

New Thomasville Course Tests Golf

THOMASVILLE, Ga., April 6.—Golfers of this region are finding the new 18-hole course at Glen Arven Country Club here a decidedly more difficult proposition to negotiate than the old nine-hole course.

The old course was 2,858 yards in length and listed as 36. The new course measures 3,320 yards out, and 3,215 in, for a total of 6,544 yards, and is well-fitted with golf tests. Par on the new links is 36 out and 36 in, a total of 72 for the 18 holes, but it is an altogether different sort of 36 that the golfer is called on to make now.

BASEBALL CLUBS OF TRI-STATES FACE BUSY WEEK

Five Games on Tap for Teams in Virginia, Maryland and Carolina.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., April 6.—Five baseball games between southern conference rivals in the Tri-State league are to be played during the week. Maryland starts southward Monday for a four-day trip and on Friday North Carolina heads northward for a five-game series.

The Old Liners will be in action against North Carolina State, North Carolina and Virginia. In addition there is a game with Duke, not a league member.

Burton Shipley, coach of the Maryland nine, has a much better ball club than last year, one that is evenly balanced between sophomores and veterans. After a warming up last week they are ready to get into the league race.

Cronin, left field, Berger, second base, and Chalmers, shortstop, are three new men who head the batting order. Then comes Julie Radice, the versatile athlete who plays first base, and Captain Hetzel, right fielder, followed by May, a new man in center, and Gayler, a veteran, on third. Higgins and Rosen will work behind the bat and Milburn, Hauser and Phipps on the mound.

North Carolina jumps up to College Park to open the Tarheel invasion on Friday. The next afternoon will find the Carolinians on Lambeth field, opposing Virginia in the annual Jefferson Day game. After a Sunday rest the Chapel Hill boys play Washington & Lee, V. M. I., and V. P. I., before returning home.

Jimmy Maus, who will do most of the receiving for the Tarheels, heads a squad that has been somewhat weakened since last spring by the graduation of the entire outfield and one of his best infielders. Coach Ashmore kept 23 men at the Hill during the spring holidays in an effort to develop replacements.

Among the baseball games scheduled for next week are the following: On Monday Maryland plays N. C. State in Raleigh. On Tuesday Maryland opposes North Carolina in Chapel Hill. Wake Forest plays Duke at Durham and Junonia visits Washington & Lee in Lexington.

Wednesday's games include Maryland vs. Duke in Durham and Davidson vs. V. M. I. in Lexington. Thursday will find Maryland playing Virginia in Charlottesville and Davidson against W. & L. in Lexington. On Friday the only game is between North Carolina and Maryland in College Park.

CHICAGO, April 6.—(AP)—Harold (Dutch) Smith, of the Los Angeles A. C., new National A. A. U. low board fancy diving champion, today led the qualifiers in the high board event, with his teammates, Johnny and Mickey Reilly, also among the nine who will compete in the finals.

Other qualifiers were Walter Colwell, Chicago Athletic Association; Marshall Wayne, Coral Gables, Fla.; Herman Ringler, Penn. A. C.; Richard Degener, Detroit; Frank Kurtz, Hollywood, Cal.; A. C., and Ed Thromson, Stanford University.

RUTH INJURED AS YANKS WIN AT DALLAS, 12-7

Swat King Turns Up With Charleyhorse and Will Be Out Five Days.

DALLAS, Texas, April 6.—(UN)—The New York Yankees scored a costly 12-7 victory over the Dallas Steers of the Texas league here today, losing Babe Ruth for at least five days as the result of a charleyhorse. A crowd of 9,500 saw the game.

Ruth was going from first to third in the sixth on a single to right by Gehrig when his right leg suddenly buckled under him. Doc Painter, Yankee trainer, said that Babe would be out for from five to seven days.

Ruth had made two safe hits and walked twice in four trips. Whether he will quit the barnstormers and return immediately to New York was not announced.

Piggras pitched for the Yankees and was the first pitcher to go the full route. He was hit freely but had a good lead to work on, as the result of early Yankee assaults on Mitchell and Tauscher. Gehrig hit a home run.

SHARKEY FACES $500,000 SUIT

Old Sparring Partner of Gob Seeks Money for Cuffing He Got.

BOSTON, April 6.—(AP)—The Boston Post said today that Jack Sharkey, America's outstanding heavyweight boxer, is to be sued for damages totaling $500,000 by his former sparring partner, Emmanuel "Rocky" Stone, of Boston and that the papers will be filed next week.

The paper said that Sharkey, now training at Epping, N. H., for a bout with Max Schmeling, of Germany, at New York in June, is charged among other things with malicious assault and battery on the huge Stone during camp bouts. In connection with the alleged assaults, Stone seeks $250,000 damages. A similar amount is sought in another suit in which Stone charges Sharkey failed to keep an agreement that Stone was to be used only as a sparring partner and not subjected to alleged severe punishment.

Stone's counsel said that an effort would be made to attach Sharkey's share of the receipts when he meets Schmeling, the Post will say.

Stone, now partially blind, also plans two suits for $5,000 each against Sharkey and his manager, Johnny Buckley. One seeks to recover a bonus of $500 Stone says he was promised during the days when Sharkey was preparing to meet Jack Dempsey.

In the other he seeks to recover $2,000 in wages he claims are due him.

When Sharkey first started to climb the pugilistic heights Stone was hired as a sparring partner and was to be paid $20 a day, Stone claimed. He says that the pay he received from 1924 to 1928 would average only $34 a week. He claims that he was promised a $5,000 bonus before the Dempsey fight but received only $50.

Cardinals To Train At Bradenton Again

BRADENTON, Fla., April 6.—(AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals will return to Bradenton next year for spring training. It was announced last night by President Sam Breadon, of the club, shortly before he left for St. Louis.

The Cardinals, remaining in Florida longer than any other major league club training in the state, will depart Wednesday afternoon for the home grounds.

The Absent Fundamental.
(With apologies to the Shade of Hek.)
Yes, he can jab with his left and his right;
He can step in and out like a gray streak of light;
He can counter and feint, he can right cross and blow;
And if the spot's open the blighter can sock—
At using both hands he's the pick of the flock—
But the hell of it is he can't kick.

He knows how to wrestle, to clinch and to dance,
He has a left hand that he throws like a lance;
He can step around mugs on a pair of fast feet,
His hook is a honey, his uppercut's neat,
He ought to be harder than Dempsey to beat—
But the hell of it is he can't kick.

Ty Cobb's Future.
With the approach of another baseball season more than the usual number of letters and inquiries have drifted in asking why one Tyrus Raymond Cobb, of Georgia, doesn't get back into baseball. They want him back in the big league as a player—they want him back as a manager—or they want him back as an owner.

But the shadows of the grandstands will no longer fall across Cobb's path. Last week I spent the better part of three days with Ty at Augusta.

"So far as baseball is concerned," Ty said, "I'm through for all time. I'm back with my family now where I intend to play golf and hunt. And now and then I expect to travel and see more of the world."

"I worked at top speed, mentally and physically with everything I had, for twenty-five years. I am now lucky enough to be able to lead the kind of life I want to lead and that means, in the way of recreation, golf, hunting and travel."

There will be no more baseball and as far as I know there will be no other business or profession for me to take up."

Ty at Home.
We dropped by to see young Ty and the rest of the family. Young Ty, now 19 years old and a senior at Hill school, was waiting on the front porch with four or five members of the Hill school tennis team who were with him during the spring vacation. As captain of the Hill tennis team he wanted to see that his young squad got a good start during the vacation interval.

Ty, Jr., is a tall, well-built athlete whose main athletic interest is tennis. He is good enough to have drawn more than one

Atlanta, with Al Lopez added to the other ex-Cracker and Southern leaguers on the Brooklyn club, will follow the destiny of the Artful Dodgers with more than ordinary interest this season.

The club plays the Crackers here on Tuesday after a game in Macon and the biggest crowd of the exhibition season is expected to be out to see the contest.

Southern Railway Defeats Feds, 5-2

A rally in the eighth inning enabled the Southern Railway team to defeat the Commodore Feds, 5 to 2, Sunday afternoon at the prison. The railway team scored four runs in the eighth inning and added another in the ninth. Tugh pitched for the winners and gave up only five hits. He was aided by the hitting of Richardson and Fowler. Massey hit best for the losers.

CARNERA, FIELDS HOLD SPOTLIGHT

Slim Pickings Ahead for Nation's Fistic Fans This Week.

NEW YORK, April 6.—(AP)—Rather slim pickings are in store for the fight fans of the United States this week with a non-title bout for Jackie Fields of Los Angeles, holder of the world's welterweight championship, and another appearance of the huge Primo Carnera as the highlights of the program.

Fields, tackles Tommy Freeman, Erie, Pa., slugger, in a 12-round bout at Cleveland Tuesday night. His title will not be at stake.

Carnera, the Ambling Alp, ambles to Los Angeles the same evening to take on Neil Clisby, Riverside, Cal., negro, who weighs a mere 200 pounds. Clisby's record is just about as impressive as those of Carnera's previous opponents on his barnstorming tour. The bout is scheduled for 10 rounds.

Other bouts on the national program are of not particular importance. New York fans must confine their attention to the smaller arenas for a while while the circus occupies Madison Square Garden. The three-day stands of the national amateur championships supplants professional boxing in Boston.

Tony Canzoneri, former featherweight champion, presents the leading name on the New York program, continuing his campaign for another meeting with Jack (Kid) Berg. He meets Frankie La Fay, Troy, N. Y., lightweight, in a 10-rounder at the Broadway arena Tuesday.

Treat Your Face to a Mint Julep Shave!

Your face, having been shaved for years, has stood for an awful lot. Here's your chance to square yourself for all your past shaving! Treat your face to a mint julep shave. All you need is a little BRISK shaving cream and some hot or cold water.

BRISK makes a mint julep shave because, first of all, it makes plenty of lather—and plenty of lather is the first requirement of a good shave! BRISK produces two to three times the lather because it absorbs two to three times the amount of water. That means not only a profuse lather, but one that stays moist on your face until you finish your shave.

Lubricates the Cutting Stroke

Secondly, BRISK lubricates the cutting stroke of the razor. You know how a bit of soap on a saw eases its passage through a log—well, that's how BRISK smooths the path of the razor. The razor does not "pull," skip or chop, but glides sweetly over the skin, mowing down the hair cleanly at each stroke.

And as a finishing touch, BRISK acts as a balm. Leaves the skin soft and supple as a fine kid glove. Puts your face in good humor for the day!

BRISK, at 50c, is a good "buy" for quantity as well as quality. You get an amazing lot of shaves from a box because you have to use so little.

Spit is a horrid word, but it is worse on the end of your cigar

... the war against Spitting is a crusade of decency . . . join it.

Smoke CERTIFIED CREMO!

Thousands of men who would gladly trounce a spitter caught in the act continue, nevertheless, to accept cigars rolled by dirty fingers and tipped with spit! And remember more than half of all cigars made in this country are made by hand, and therefore subject to the risk of spit!

Certified Cremo protects you against this abomination! Every tobacco leaf entering the clean, sunny Certified Cremo factories is scientifically treated by methods recommended by the United States Department of Agriculture. And its purity is safeguarded along every step of the way by amazing inventions that foil, wrap and tip the cigars without the possibility of spit!

Try a Certified Cremo—see how wonderfully good it is! Made of the choicest, tenderest leaves that the crop affords, we claim Certified Cremo's quality is tastier than that of any other cigar. Don't let its 5c price stand in your way. Your physician has in mind a cigar like Certified Cremo when he recommends a mild smoke in place of heavy brands.

Crush-proof . . . immaculate . . . foil-wrapped . . . Certified Cremo is the kind of cigar the late Vice-President Marshall undoubtedly was thinking of when he said: "What this country needs is a good 5c cigar!"

man before Meadows came on in the third inning. Soon after the unwarmed Lee took the mound they got their second and last run. And it was due to errors on the part of Meadows' teammates. Only two hits were made off him in the five innings he worked. He had the home boys swinging wildly and standing star gazing at the good ones which the umpires honestly called strikes.

Meadows dusted off his steamed specs at the end of the eighth inning and started for the clubhouse. Soon he was literally ganged by the localites, who never before had seen such a dazzling mixture of heaves. For a few minutes Meadows conducted a baseball school with the Montgomery boys as his pupils. Then he went to the showers.

An ambitious young man by the name of Beaver pitched the ninth inning for the Crackers and got by without being scored on. For a few minutes Meadows conducted a baseball school with the Montgomery boys as his pupils. Then he went to the showers.

CRACKERS SCORE. Atlanta counted its six runs by scoring in three innings. Woods, the Montgomery starting pitcher, had to spot Atlanta two counters which they pulled by fakes in the third. Sheehan got two bases on a double that should have been an easy out and scored when three Montgomery boys watched each other rather than the pitcher's drive fell between them, old Doc going all the way to third, from whence he scored on "Powerhouse" Hammond's sacrifice fly.

The Crackers got their third run in the sixth when Catcher Long singled with the walking Hammond on second base.

The Crackers took on three more runs which they did not need in the ninth inning. Catcher Long's single also figured in this scoring, it being his second run scoring hit of the game. The work of Long, who caught the full nine innings, also pleased Manager Dobbs, and he was well satisfied with the showing of his hitherto unknown quantities.

Robins Await Cracker Game.

MACON, Ga., April 6.—(U.N.)—Continuing his policy of getting as much work as possible out of his players, Manager Wilbert Robinson, of Brooklyn, has arranged another doubleheader for Monday.

In the first game the Robins re-signs will play the Macon team and in the second the Robins regulars will meet the Atlanta Crackers in the first of a two-game series. The Robins close their stay here with these two games. They move to Atlanta, on Tuesday to resume with the Crackers.

keen recommendation from Bill Tilden, who believes young Cobb has a chance to reach championship heights.

I asked Herschel Cobb, aged 17, another red-haired entry with a strong, wiry build, whether he liked tennis, golf or baseball. "I like baseball pretty well," he said, "but I like football better. I like a game just a little rougher than tennis, baseball or golf."

Ty, Jr., hopes to enter Princeton next fall and he intends to play all the tennis he can find time to play. Ty, Sr., wants his son to play good tennis but he isn't so sure about the matter of giving up the amount of time needed to reach the top.

The Cobb homestead is well decorated with trophies of the hunt—heads of moose, caribou, antelope and mountain sheep and goat. Ty is through with baseball but hunting will remain one of his favored diversions, a sport he has followed all his life. And any one who thinks his legs have gone might start at daybreak with him on some all-day hunt and keep alongside until dark. Or try to.

Pennant Odds.

Pennant odds just quoted put the Athletics at 1-2 and the Cubs at 6-5. Even the powerful Yankee club of two and three years ago was never made as hot a favorite as the Athletics are now. One to two against the field is close to being a record along the line of short odds, but while any number of things can happen in baseball, who wants to back some team to beat the Athletics?

Mack's outfit has the pitching and the hitting strength of a league, although his young men won't out-hit the Yankees by any big margin. If they traded pitching staffs the Yankees would be picked to win, but there is a faint idea abroad that Mr. Mack has no thought of trading pitching staffs.

The Cub outlook is about as healthy as the Athletics, provided nothing of a serious nature happens to Hornsby, who is still limping on a bum heel. The loss of a .370 or .380 hitter for any length of time will leave a dent that even the Cubs won't care to face.

The Easiest Year.

Which recalls the fact that in Cobb's opinion the second year is the easiest pennant season for any good winning club. This is the second year for both the Cubs and the Athletics.

If they have any easier time than they had last year the two races will be over around July. But several of their rivals have improved and this will make a difference. Possibly not enough to count a lot, but enough to keep the two races going for some time.

The War of All Nations.

The international sporting hurly-burly will now begin to break out in a rash at almost any moment. Your Uncle Sam will be busy on almost every front. The boxing war is with Germany, where Sharkey and Schmelling will be the color-bearers. The golf and polo wars will be against Great Britain. The main tennis war will be with France. The cup race on the high seas will also be with Great Britain. Italy hopes to crowd Carnera into the picture somewhere before summer is over, if any one can find a frame that is large enough.

The first hostile act from this side will come when Miss Collett will take her golf team to England. From that point on the firing will be practically continuous. Canada already has bagged the hockey championship and it might be noted that the United States is no outstanding favorite in a number of these contests where only a few years ago the odds were all lopsided in one direction.

Horton Smith and Hagen have traveled over 40,000 miles in the last year but this is only a short hike to the average duffer when you figure the zig-zag course he has to follow from tee to green.

COTTON ASSOCIATION
MEETING ADJOURNED

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., April 6.—(AP)—Members of the board of directors of the American Cotton Co-operative Association and visiting members of the federal farm board today had departed for their respective sections of the country following a meeting here Saturday.

Election of E. F. Creekmore, of Fort Smith, Ark., as vice president and general manager of the association, was the principal item of public interest to take place during the meeting. Selection of permanent headquarters was deferred until a later date.

Creekmore, president of a cotton company bearing his name, said he would liquidate his private affairs so as to give his entire time to association business. He has been connected with the cotton dealing business since he was 16 years old.

Chairman Alexander Legge and Carl Williams, cotton representative of the federal farm board, attended the meeting. Directors present were Allen Northington, Montgomery, president; C. D. Moser, Dallas, secretary; James Wells, Washington; U. B. Haddock, Raleigh, N. C.; S. C. Coleman, Oklahoma City; N. C. Williamson, Lake Providence, La.; W. R. Squires, El Paso, Texas; Harry Williams, Dallas; T. H. Butler, Memphis; W. R. McCullough, Columbia, S. C.; J. E. Conwell, Atlanta; Charles G. Henry, Little Rock; R. E. Kennedy, Jackson, Miss.; Frank E. Green, Delano, Cal.; and R. O. McCutchen, Bishopville, S. C.

CREEKMORE FAVORABLE KNOWN IN TRADE.

FORT SMITH, Ark., April 6.—(AP)—Although a comparatively young man, E. F. Creekmore, who Saturday was elected vice president and general manager of the American Cotton Co-operative Association, has attained national recognition.

Mr. Creekmore is a native of Van Buren, Ark., and a graduate of the University of Arkansas, holding an A. B. degree. In college he was one of the most outstanding athletes of the state at the time and was selected on the all-Arkansas football team in 1909. He still takes keen interest in sports.

In addition to his cotton connections Mr. Creekmore is prominently known in the cotton and social organizations in Fort Smith.

FIVE ARE KILLED
IN 2 PLANE CRASHES

TILDEN, Neb., April 6.—(AP)—Two young men were killed instantly and a third was critically injured near here today when their airplane went into a tailspin and crashed into flames as it crashed to the ground from a height of 500 feet. The crash occurred in view of several thousand persons attending the dedication of a new state game preserve. All three men were residents of Plainville, Neb. The dead: Leon Baldwin, 24; Leonard Alexander, 22.

Kenneth Kirk, 26, pilot and part owner of the plane, was so severely injured that he is not expected to live. Both his legs were broken. Alexander and Kirk were co-owners of the plane which they had been using for passenger service at Plainville.

The trio had been attending the dedication ceremony and had taken off but a few minutes before the crash. Baldwin and Alexander were dead when persons reached the flaming wreckage. Kirk was extricated and taken to a hospital.

HAYS, Kan., April 6.—(AP)—Three persons were killed late today in an airplane crash at the airport one mile west of here. The victims were Leslie Marshall, 34, of Hays; pilot; Orville Horbert, 20; and Melvin Ridgeway, 20, both of Ellis, Kan., passengers.

The plane crashed in a tailspin from an altitude of approximately 500 feet. As the biplane struck the ground, flames burst from the fuselage and the bodies were badly burned. Airport attendants said the pilot had gone into a "wing-over" and the ship failed to come out of the turn. They said Marshall apparently misjudged his ship's speed in the downward wind current.

The pilot had taken the two students for a flight over Hays.

The plane was owned by Harry Turk, of Hays, an official of the Phillips Petroleum Company. Marshall, an employee of a machine shop, had done considerable flying both as pilot for Turk and the Hays Flying school.

The pilot is survived by his widow and six children.
